Why not a car body made of rubber, or plastic? A car body that bounces, instead of crumpling into a wrinkled mess, at the touch of a fender?

I asked Blayne Scott, president of Scott Plastics, a number of questions. He said: "Oh, yes, you could make a small car body out of any polyethylene plastic," he said. "The only question is, how much would it cost? I wouldn't like to hazard a guess, until I'd thought and read about it for a while, and consulted with people who know the thing has a chance to succeed. But at least a car body is a lot better than a car body I think, which Blayne hands Eric Street."

They Wouldn't Smash

"Plastic or rubber might be better than steel in some ways, inferior in others," he says. "Plastic fenders would be the same color all the way through—not just on the surface. They wouldn't smash—only dent in such a way that they could be squeezed back. They wouldn't crumple or rust."

On the other hand, plastic has a weakness for the ultraviolet rays in sunlight, and tends to deteriorate when exposed to the sun. But new plastic materials are always coming out of the laboratory. So we may live to see the bouncy car body, which can be fixed with a tap of the knuckles, instead of costing two weeks' pay in an auto body shop.

"If I knew one per cent of

'Perfect for Victoria'

On this machine they began turning out plastic gadgets for commercial fishermen—plugs, gage caps, tagline fairleads and other items whose use is known only to people who speak the fisherman's language.

They are still using their original machine, plus several others, to make such various items as plastic ore collars, plastic boat pumps, pegs for giant crab boards, oil well sampling cups, polyethylene plastic blankets to insulate and preserve the ice in fishing vessels, plastic crutch tips, and many other useful things.

The word "plastic" includes scores of materials as different from another as chalk from cheese. They are products of the oil fields, the pulp mills and the chemical labo-ries, melted and squeezed into shape.

One day a housewife will be familiar with the major kinds of plastic, and will be able to compare their prices and values readily in the stores. So far, she doesn't usually know one from another.

The Scotts believe that plastics are the perfect kind of industry for Victoria. The industry uses lightweight, easily imported materials to manufacture lightweight products that can be air-freighted anywhere at minimum cost. There are many other lines of manufacture that should do well on Vancouver Island.

"Industry can flourish in Victoria," says Blayne Scott. "All it needs is imagination and creative ability, and some kind of catalyst to set the existing skills to work."

Tremendous Strides Made In Operations to Heart

By JOSEPH MOINER, MD

Dear Dr. Moiner: Our son has a congenital defect, a small hole in the wall of his heart. He is six and as far as I have never bothered him. I have him checked once a year.

Our family doctor suggests an operation to correct the condition before he starts school in the fall. On the other hand, our pediatrician doesn't advise the operation because in his opinion it isn't perfected enough.—Mrs. F.L.

I can't agree heart surgery isn't perfected enough. Tremendous strides have been made and such surgery is now an everyday occurrence.

My suggestion must certainly would be to consult the surgeon who would perform the operation, and get his advice and that of his staff colleagues as to the best time for it.

"Writer's bunion" isn't a real bunion at all, but a callus or thickening of the skin on a finger. This problem is rather common among persons who use pen or pencil quite a few hours a day.

About all the advice I could offer was the fact that the callus comes from pressure and anything that reduces the pressure—like not holding the pen or pencil too tightly—will help.

"A suggestion: Wear a rubber finger on the finger that has the callus. I constantly use one when taking dictation and I've been doing this type of work for 30 years. No callus.—Pearl Working Girl."

Note to C.W.: Having neurodermatitis does not mean a person is neurotic.

"Dear Dr. Moiner: Can cirrhosis of the liver be cured? I have a damaged liver without having cirrhosis or cancer? When jaundice appears and you get early treatment, can the yellow color be stopped?—M.H."

Cirrhosis can be arrested and improved with early treatment; there is no way to cure cancer of the liver. Second, there are different kinds of Berliners until a few days ago normally passed back and forth.

The barbed-wire no-man's-land is even wider now. Both East and West have taken rigorous steps to prevent any possibility of a clash. Crowds were kept far back from the boundary.

"NO ENTRY" SIGNS
I drove toward the East Zone, past the Russian war memorial now ringed with "no entry" signs. At the huge gate with its broad plaza, Western police again stopped me. The car could go no farther.

There were a few police cars and half a dozen civilians. A hundred yards away was the barbed wire. Behind that Red road blocks. Behind that, so far away they looked like dwarfs were the East German police in pale green.

Standing but in the plaza was their notorious hose car, looking like a tank with a gun turret—but in fact topped by a pressure hose. ARMORED CARS
Through the lowering portals of the gate I saw the armored cars. Beyond stretched Unter den Linden.

Like the street on my side of the boundary, it was empty of civilians. Then I went to Potsdamer Platz, where young trees grow in a green field that marks Hitler's chancellery.

Today it was deserted and barricaded on both sides established an empty neutral zone, patrolled by police.

This empty belt makes it almost impossible for East Germans to get through to the West.

Any Easterner who has had his identity card checked by Communist police then has the problem of bolting a quarter of a mile down an empty street to the Western barricade.

BREAK ABSOLUTE
The break between the zones has become absolute. Trains, buses, gas, light, telephone are now split into two services, one for the East, another for the West.

The Eastern-run elevated train was blocked at the week end. The only remaining point of co-operation is sewage disposal. But West Berlin, fearing the worst, is speeding up work to establish its own.

HESTATED
I crossed into East Berlin at the Friedrichstrasse because this is supposed to show visitors the best part of the Communist city.

An East German policeman looked at my passport. He was very young, friendly, talkative. He hesitated, almost giving

Job Situation Probe Has Full Confidence Of City Labor Chief

Victoria Labor Council president Robert Barrie said last night he had full confidence in a council committee appointed to probe unemployment problems.

His comment came in reply to a scathing attack on the committee by Robert Brodie, B.C. delegate for the shipyard riggers union, at Wednesday night's council meeting.

CERTAIN GROUPS
Mr. Brodie charged that "certain groups" within a labor-sponsored unemployment council had suppressed a report on favoritism on granting job openings by National Employment Service employees.

He said these groups had hamstrung the unemployment council to the point where it failed to function properly. He also called for a one-day general strike throughout B.C. by all labor unions.

In reply to the delegate's charges, Mr. Barrie said last night that no evidence had been uncovered of so-called "favoritism" in the N.E.S., as alleged by Mr. Brodie.

PRESSURE GROUPS
He added that the "pressure group" that buried the so-called report was unknown to him.

"I think he was probably carried away . . . I think he was inferring that the 'corrupt' was either the labor council or the B.C. Federation of Labor. . . . I repeat emphatically, no report was suppressed."

NEVER CONSIDERED
Mr. Barrie said the delegate's call for a general strike was "never considered by the council."

He said he had complete confidence in the unemployment committee and its chairman, V.L.C. delegate Robert Noble.

"As president of the labor council, I feel my committee are doing a good job."

War Relic Kills Eight

AVERSA, Italy (UPI)—Seven children and a woman were killed yesterday in an explosion apparently caused by a Second World War shell or bomb. Three other children were critically injured and one child was missing.

Aversa was the scene of heavy fighting in the Allied drive through southern Italy. There are still piles of wartime rubble in the city.

Anti-U.S. Move

Reds Offer Pact As Bait to Japan

TOKYO (Reuters)—Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan, campaigning to get Japan to scrap its security pact with the United States, Thursday dangled the prospect of a tempting trade agreement if Japan abandoned the defence treaty.

Meanwhile, Japanese foreign ministry officials accused Mikoyan of interfering in Japan's domestic affairs through his repeated attacks on the defence pact.

Mikoyan, who arrived Monday for a nine-day visit to open the first Soviet trade fair here, has not stopped his repeated attacks on the U.S.-Japanese agreement.

Following Wednesday's warning of war if Japan did not quit the treaty, Mikoyan Thursday softened his approach in an hour-long television program.

Russia, he said, fears that Japanese planes flying between Tokyo and Moscow would take photographs of Russian military installations in Siberia and turn them over to the U.S.

The officials said Japan was determined to convince Mikoyan and Khrushchev that Japan would not be shaken by either 'temptations or threats.'

There were no reports of violence.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Three major drug firms and three of their top executives were indicted yesterday on charges of rigging the prices of three "wonder drugs" used by millions of Americans.

The Federal Grand Jury indictment charged that the alleged conspiracy prevented other companies from marketing improved drugs and hampered research. It also provided the defendants with "unreasonably high profits."

The indictment said the involved are three of the four so-called "broad spectrum" antibiotics—sulfamycin, tetracycline and streptomycin—which are used in fighting a wide range of harmful micro-organisms.

ALLEGATION DENIED

The indictment named as defendants: Chas. Pfizer & Co. Inc. and John McKee, president and board chairman; American Cyanamid Co., which manufactures streptomycin through its Lederle Laboratories Division; and Wilbur Macdonald, chairman of the board; British-Myers Co., and Frederic Schwartz, president.

All three companies denied the allegation.

FACE JAIL TERM

The executives could face up to three years' imprisonment each if convicted.

Two other firms were named co-conspirators—the Olin Mathieson Corp. of New York, of which E. R. Squibb & Sons is a division, and the Upjohn Co. of Kalamazoo, Mich.

The defendants were charged with conspiring to restrain trade, with conspiring to monopolize and with manipulation of drug sales under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

CHARGES

The indictment charged that they conspired to keep other companies from manufacturing tetracycline and let only Upjohn and Squibb share in selling tetracycline products.

The indictment said that among the results of the conspiracy "patients, retail druggists, wholesalers, private and tax-supported hospitals and governmental agencies have been deprived of the benefits of competition and have been compelled to pay non-competitive and unreasonably high prices for broad spectrum antibiotic products."

It added—"Introduction of improved forms and methods of administration of broad spectrum antibiotics by other companies has been restricted and prevented and research in this field has been hampered."

Frozen Funds

GLENDALK, Calif. (UPI)—The operator of a cold storage business found $45,547 in a frozen food locker when the man who rented it anonymously three months ago failed to return, police said yesterday.

The money, ranging from $1 to $1,000 bills, all neatly wrapped in paper, was turned over to police.

Australia Fears Industrial Havoc

CANBERRA (Reuters)—Australian Trade Minister John McEwen said yesterday British entry into the European Common Market without adequate safeguards for the Commonwealth would mean "nothing but havoc" for many Australian primary industries.

McEwen told the House of Representatives Australia would not be "lightly brushed off" by trade policies which crippled her markets, strangled her development and frustrated her economic growth.

"Our fight is a fight for stakes which for us are very high," he said.

He said the United States "the world's leader in preaching if not practicing"—must take an interest in the situation.

The Common Market represented to Australian eyes "the most gigantic obstacle to international trading in the world's history," he added.

Inquest Called Into Mystery Traffic Death

An inquest will be held Monday into the traffic death early yesterday of AB Gustave E. Edvall, 21, HMCS Naden, who died on his way to HMCS Naden Hospital.

Edvall was found semi-conscious on Craigflower near Shirley, 230 yards from where his unoccupied car crashed to a stop against a power pole.

NEVER BE KNOWN

An official said it will probably never be determined if the man jumped or was thrown from the rampaging car.

First at the scene were two Daily Colonist paper carriers, Michael Green, 1175 Leckley, 13, and Donald Albany, 13, 1215 Craigflower.

SHANNED FENCE

They said the car was going east on Craigflower, crossed the wrong side of the road and crossed 30 yards on the grass verge before crossing a lawn and flower bed at 1182 Craigflower, a vacant lot, and smashed through a fence at 1170 Craigflower, before diving into a ditch at the Shirley intersection and skidding to a stop 30 yards beyond.

The boys said they didn't see Edvall fall from the car, but found him gasping 250 yards from the crash scene.

"We went to where the car had hit the pole, but we didn't see anyone in it, Donald said. "We got on our bikes and went back and found him near the ditch, coughing and chok-

INQUEST DATE SET

H. E. Alder, deputy coroner said the inquest would be held at 10 a.m. Monday in Mayward's funeral home.

The victim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Edvall of Prince George, and he has been service award HMCS New Glasgow, New Waterford, and Ottawa since joining the navy in 1956.

New Dental Building To Cost $100,000

A modern dental building costing more than $100,000 will be built in the 1100 block Yates Street next to the Doctors' Medical Clinic building.

Workmen started this week tearing down an old wooden building at 1111 Yates to make room for the new structure which will be built by its owner, William Tait Construction Ltd. of Victoria. Architect Fritz Schulze of Nanaimo, and Erik Hole, of Victoria, consulting engineer, are designing each office ac-ording to the requirements of individual dentists.

The two-story building will have offices for nine dentists and a dental laboratory.

C. E. Pullan, vice president of Island Homes Ltd., agents for the new building, said yesterday there are six doctors in the nearby medical building and that the two structures will have a joint parking lot. Construction of the new building will start as soon as the old building at 1111 Yates is demolished, said Mr. Pullan.

Knowles Refused Office

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP)—Stanley Knowles, former CCP Winnipeg member of Parliament, said Wednesday Prime Minister Diefenbaker had offered him the speakership of the House of Commons shortly after the Progressive Conservatives formed the government in 1957.

REFUSED OFFERS

Mr. Knowles, defeated in the 1956 federal election, said he refused the offer. He denied, however, that he had been invited to join the Progressive Conservative party.

DECLINED

Mr. Knowles told the Newfound Federation of Labor he had on several occasions declined invitations to join the Liberal party.

Now executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress, Mr. Knowles was replying to a suggestion from Bill Island, Nfld., labor official Steve Neary that he had been refused admission to both parties.

DURING SPEECH

Mr. Neary made his suggestion during a speech against a resolution that the Newfoundland Federation of Labor reject a motion to support the New Democratic Party. The resolution passed.

'Stress' Expert Starts Startling New Program

By ALAN DUCKETT

MONTREAL (CP)—The man who gave the English word "stress" to several other languages yesterday started his second quarter century of research into human ills by announcing a new research program.

World-famous Dr. Hans Selye, 54-year-old head of the University of Montreal's Institute of Experimental Medicine, renowned for his research on stress in humans, has given details of new experiments which offer the possibility of eventually obviating some surgical procedures.

ALL ANGLES

Given the technical name of "calciophylaxis," the startling new research program "is the only one we have going on now," said Dr. Selye. "But we are examining it from all angles—as it affects stress, heart, renal, skin and inflammatory diseases."

WIDE SUPPORT

Famous for exposing stress as a relentless killer of men, Dr. Selye in his new program of research is assisted by post-graduate scientists from Canada, the United States, Belgium, Italy, Argentina, Czechoslovakia and Portugal.

NEW VIEWS OPENED

The research group under Dr. Selye has induced moulting in a vertebrate and has opened possible new vistas in treating human ailments.

And, as Dr. Selye explains, it was while doing cardiac and renal disease research during recent months that his researchers "accidentally" discovered that calciophylaxis of animal tissue "could possibly" obviate certain forms of surgery.

The scientist said this possibility is "very much in the future if ever in sight."

The experimental method was to have calcium deposits made at pre-determined sites of the body of rats, in one case the animal's skin.

Fire Threatens Two Settlements

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A forest fire was reported threatening the Trinity Bay settlements of Centerville and Trinity Thursday night as firemen continued a discouraging fight against the province's worst forest fire smouldering in history.

Details from the remote settlements were scant, but Chief Forester Ed Ralph said after returning from the area: "It's horrible."

"The fire is burning intensely, completely out of control. There are tremendous towers of smoke."

Centerville has a population of nearly 500 and Trinity more than 600. There was no word on whether evacuation was considered.

An aircraft, on loan from Ontario, which crashed landed in a pond Wednesday with engine trouble, was to be flown a new engine.

The engine was to be transported to Gandar by train and airlifted to the pond halfway between Centerville and Gandar in an area surrounded by fire. Officers said the plane was in no danger.

Mr. Ralph, who returned here after spending several weeks directing the battle in the north-coast area, said high winds had fanned fresh fires in back of Centerville posing a threat to both communities.

"We need rain to dampen those fires to give us a chance to move in on them. We are not too mobile because the smoke is so thick."

Volume, Prices Both Up

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market huddled through a day of higher prices and volume, with a handful of spectacular gains to some individual issues.

Eddy Power A had the big gain, up 1 1/2 points, to 22 1/2. The stock of the power company advanced 3 1/2 in late-day trading on a turnover of 200 shares.

The day's best groups proved to be utilities, refining oil and banks and financial institutions.

Recovery Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's recovery movement gained power Thursday as prices advanced in vigorous trading and the Associated Press average of 60 stocks reached a new high.

For the third straight session, Standard-Packard was the most active issue, rising a full point to 104 on tremendous volume of 43,700 shares. This was more than 10 per cent of the day's turnover of 413,000 shares which compared with Wednesday's 343,000.

Mines Active

MONTREAL (CP)—Prices were narrowly higher on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges Thursday. Trading was light among the industrial and active among the mines. Advances outnumbered declines 59 to 55 and 90 issues were unchanged.

London Quotes

LONDON (Reuters)—Activity continued at a low ebb in trading in the stock exchange. British funds gained. Dollar stocks moved uncertain with prices easing.

Banking and insurance issues moved up. Industrials gained and stores were firmer. Engineering improved and steel was held steady. Oils were narrowly irregular. Gold and copper shares improved. Time made headway.

Grain Markets

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian wheat board's announcement that applications would be approved for importing American oats into Canada influenced more liberal offerings in feed grains on the Winnipeg grain exchange yesterday.

Quebec Gas Finds Made at 200 Feet

Recent natural gas discoveries near Three Rivers, Que., have been described by an industry consultant as the "highest potential wells east of Alberta."

An official of J. C. Spruille and Associates said in Calgary last week that the company has since April drilled 10 exploratory wells in the Point du Lac field five miles west of Three Rivers.

SWEET GAS

In each case fine quality sweet gas was struck at only 200 feet.

This compares with an average depth for shallow wells in Western Canada of 3,000 feet. The official, whose company handles engineering work for both Quebec firms, said exploration drilling costs and market value of the gas will give the producers a cost advantage of 60-70¢ over western producers although the size of the field is probably smaller than many in Alberta.

PRODUCTION CUT

Canadian newspaper production in July was 554,947 tons, 900 tons or 3 per cent less than the amount for July, 1960, the Newspaper Association of Canada reported.

Average daily production was 21,337 tons, a decrease of 1.1 per cent from the average for the same period last year.

Ghastly Failures Haunting West

Names in the News

Union Leader Hails 'Honest Capitalist'

VANCOUVER—British Columbia lumber tycoon H. B. MacMillan is "one of the few honest capitalists in the world," a union leader said.

Paddy Neeke, secretary of the Vancouver and District Labor Council, was commenting on the remark made by Mr. MacMillan that "capitalism is gradually evaporating" as more of the product of capital is being distributed among people.

CIRENCESTER, England—William Cox says he started smoking 100 years ago and he feels fine. Cox celebrated his 93rd birthday here.

GRAZ, Austria—A former Nazi SS man, Stephen Bofka, said to have acted as a commandant of the Theresienstadt concentration camp in Czechoslovakia during the war, was arrested here.

WHITLEY BAY, England—Student nurse Edward Rawlings was fined $15.00 for smashing his fist through two glass showcases. "I was under the influence of vodka and Edgar Allan Poe," Rawlings said.

LOS ANGELES—Singer Eddie Fisher legally adopted the four-year-old daughter of wife Elizabeth Taylor by her marriage to the late Mike Todd.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—James Mueser, 88, told police he demolished his car when he believed to avoid a turtle creeping across a highway.

SYDNEY, Australia—An abstract painting that was hung upside down won a prize at the Sydney Art Show. Judge Hal Minsingham said "It's a good all upside down or right side up."

TORONTO—British sculptor Henry Moore has agreed to design the proposed cenotaph at Toronto's new civic square.

WASHINGTON—Senator William Fulbright urged economic reprisals against the Russians and East Germany for the Communist crackdown on the flow of refugees from East Germany.

OTTAWA—A nationwide civil defence exercise will be held in Canada between mid-October and mid-November.

Indians Plan National Body

PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—Indians from five provinces met in Regina to discuss formation of a Canadian federation of Indians.

Representatives from British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario were expected to attend.

Cholera Hits Hong Kong

HONG KONG (UPI)—Cholera has infiltrated Hong Kong and the British crown colony yesterday, was declared an "infected" area by international health authorities.

Four cases and two deaths have so far been reported.

Authorities shifted an anti-epidemic campaign into high gear against the deadly disease which could well sweep across the colony if not checked in time.

By Canadian Press

The western alliance approaches the Berlin crisis under the shadow of two ghastly and unforgettable failures of the past—Munich and Budapest.

It is as if the Munich and Budapest disasters were a prelude to the fatal appointment policy at Munich in 1938.

It is easy to understand the bitterness of the West Berliners, expressed by Mayor Brandt's plea to the west for "not merely words but political action."

Brandt, of course, is involved in an election campaign. But his argument that the Communists will not stop at the Brandenburg Gate nor at the Rhine rings painfully true to the generation that paid for Munich.

Basic Rights Violated

Russia has clearly violated basic rights of its citizens. And there is no guarantee that further violations will not occur if the closing of the East Berlin border is accomplished with impunity.

But the dilemma of the Western Powers is this: They agree that major retaliation is not yet indicated by the circumstances, and pin prick reactions such as a partial economic blockade of East Germany or disruption of communications might be worse than useless.

In the first place such minor retaliation would obscure the central fact of the crisis—the monumental failure of the East German Communist regime to command the support and confidence of its people.

Fingernails Gnawed

The chance of a new revolt in the midst of an already critical situation, is causing fingernails to be gnawed on both sides of the barbed wire. Neither side would be likely to gain and the danger of full-scale war would be intense.

Thus the unpalatable prospect for the West is that it may be wise to speak softly, build up its forces and regretfully let Premier Khrushchev get away with his current gamble—so long as he confines it behind the Iron Curtain.

At the same time there are encouraging reports that the Big Four are preparing joint plans for economic sanctions and other counter-measures for the day when Khrushchev decides to step out of his own bailiwick and destroy the freedom of West Berlin.

SET PRECEDENT

James Monroe was sworn in as president of the U.S. at the first open-air inaugural in Washington in 1817.

Peace Bid Doubtful

Red Space Aim—Domination

CHAUTAUQUA, N.Y. (UPI)—Russian co-operation on peaceful uses of space appears doubtful to the former head of the German V-2 rocket program.

Dr. Walter Dornberger, now vice-president and chief scientist of Bell Aerosystems Co., said yesterday that the Russians' main interest in space is military domination.

"In the race for military domination of space, the Russians are clearly well ahead, even if some of the lowest estimates of Soviet capabilities are applied," Dornberger told an audience at the Chautauqua Institution.

As long as Russia feels it is ahead, the scientist said, they will never join in a commitment preventing the use of space for military purposes.

SCOFFERS QUIET

The scientist said the notion that military bases on the moon would have military significance was scoffed at by top U.S. officials including former president Eisenhower.

"However, some of the scoffers have become quieter in the face of the Soviet Venus shot, where a payload was launched upward from an earth-orbiting launching platform, the orbiting of Soviet cosmonauts Gagarin and Titov," he said.

Oral Polio Vaccine Wins U.S. Approval

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. government yesterday settled a stormy medical controversy by approving commercial production of cherry-flavored Sabin oral polio vaccine which can be taken by teaspoon like a cough syrup.

The Public Health Service issued a manufacturing licence for production of the vaccine developed by Dr. Albert Sabin.

It is designed to prevent one of three types of polio. Oral vaccine has been used in Russia with reported success for about three years.

Surgeon General Luther Terry coupled the announcement with a plea for continued use of Salk polio vaccine as well.

Five-Year Vigil Ends For Faithful Wife

PINE MOUNTAIN, Ga. (UPI)—Timothy Satterfield lay unconscious in his bed here for five years after he was severely injured in an automobile accident. Doctors said he would never recover.

His wife, Linda, fed, clothed and bathed him. She seldom left his bedside. She fed her husband liquids through tubes and kept a suction pump handy to keep air passages free. Their three sons grew up. The eldest, Thomas Jr., joined the air force.

Occasionally Satterfield would open his eyes and look at his wife, but he gave no other indication he recognized her. "I kept praying for a miracle," she said.

Only twice did Mrs. Satterfield leave the family's modest farm home in the Pine Mountain Valley here. Once was when one of her boys had his appendix removed and the other was to visit her sick mother.

Yesterday the vigil which began May 11, 1956, ended. Timothy Satterfield, 42, died in his sleep.

Saanich Pound Improved

Administrative bugs have been ironed out of Saanich pound operations, according to Reeve George Chatterton.

The reeve said pound operations conducted jointly by the SPCA and the municipal poundkeeper are now running smoothly.

MIST DECIDE

But at the same time, he said council would have to decide before the end of the year whether to sign over the entire operation to the SPCA or build and operate a new Saanich pound.

Under the present arrangement, stray animals picked up by the poundkeeper are turned over to the SPCA for board or, in the case of unwanted animals, destruction.

TEMPORARY BAHNS

"This is purely on a month-to-month basis, and could be cancelled at any time," said the reeve.

"We will have to make up our minds soon as to whether we are going to give this duty to the SPCA permanently or build a pound."

Mayor Says No

Machine Poll Opposed

Voting machines for Victoria won't get Mayor Percy Scurrell's vote.

The machines would cost $25,000 to $30,000 and they would be used for only one day a year, he said yesterday. "I don't believe the cost would be justified."

ONLY COMPLAINT

Mayor Scurrell was commenting on preparations which are under way for the civic elections to be held in December. Use of voting machines was suggested after the last election when five recounts were needed to separate two candidates.

"Until last year we had never had a complaint, and that was an extraordinary circumstance. In all the years it is the only situation we have had of that kind."

COMPLAINT

"The machines are used in the United States, but they have long, complicated ballots covering many ordinances entirely apart from council candidates and ours is not that kind of ballot at all."

City clerk Frank Hunter, who is also the city's returning officer, is seeking a new location for the polling place.

The Victoria Ballroom, used for the past three years, has been taken over as a furniture and appliance store.

Alberta Mill Passed Up

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian Forest Products Limited has decided against taking up an option on timber in the Grande Prairie area of north-western Alberta with a view to building a pulp mill there, a company spokesman said Thursday.

Tye fishing at the four major spots—Campbell River, Comox, Port Alberni and Nahmint is slow ... slow ... slow, but some are being caught by persistent anglers.

Rain appears to be the big need and prediction is that just as soon as the first heavy rain comes there will be some terrific tye fishing everywhere. Little rain fell this week at the main tye centres, although effect of rain will be felt in lower inland fishing waters.

Despite the fact Joe Hesa, of Montreal, weighed in a 35-pounder at Campbell River on Sunday to claim the King Fishermen contest, Joe Meredith, who runs the Tye Club split camp reports fishing poor with "one or two a day, sometimes none."

At Comox tye fishing is picking up with three or four being brought in the last few mornings.

A few tye have come from Nahmint and they seem to be on the increase. Franklin River has also been giving up some, but that hasn't yet been one good enough to bring in from the fishing grounds just off the main street of Port Alberni. This fishing is going to improve—it always does—but if it doesn't start soon there is going to be a lot of tye fishing crammed into just a few weeks.

A brighter picture comes from Mike Gorik at Qualicum. "Fishing is terrific ... big coho to 10 pounds and lots of springs 12 to 15 pounds. The bucktail is getting them," he says.

He said this week's rain "made the difference of night and day to the fishing. As soon as the rain came the fish started hitting."

Fishing is good off Little Qualicum River, off Eagle Crest and off French Creek, he said.

Eve Lumb says a few coho are being taken off Qualicum Bay, but nothing spectacular. Ed Miller has seen the big springs milling about and has landed one and hooked into another, but they are not hitting yet to any extent.

"The fishing has started at Cowichan Bay ... and it is about time," says guide Dick James. "It has been good one day and spotty the next, but it is pretty steady now. It started last Friday and they are getting 12 to 40-pounders, with lots of fish over 20 pounds," he said. The usual spots—the weedline and the bluffs—are producing with trollers using flasher and dodger and from two ounces to two pounds of weight.

Yesterday morning Victoria's Bill Prior weighed in at Ordano's with a 31.13-pounder, a 16.3-pounder, a 29.3-pounder and a 13.8-pounder.

The lower Island still remains the most likely spot to get fish and the Victoria-Strathcona Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby fishoff on Sunday promises to be one of the most productive in years.

In a seven-day period, between Aug. 7 and 13, eight VSIAA button fish claims were made at Hall's Boathouse and two at Anglers Rentals. Tony Rousin claimed buttons for a 30.13 Aug. 12, a 31.12 on Aug. 12 and a 21.10 on Aug. 13 and then on Wednesday evening of this week he got a 24.12 and an 18.1-pounder, all in the Mistry Bay, Goldstream Island, Chesterfield Rock waters.

Bill Renfrew claimed a button for a 24.4-pounder on Aug. 7; Al G. McDonald for a 24.3 on Aug. 8; Bill Hawton for a 28-pounder Aug. 11; Eng Que for a 24.2-pounder Aug. 11, and Matt Lamont for a 21.8-pounder Aug. 12.

At Anglers Rentals R. J. McMillan claimed a button for a 20.2 Aug. 13 and Jack Taylor for a 20.5-pounder Aug. 10.

VSIAA money winners for July were Ken Gabriel, $25 for his 37.11-pounder, Merv Campbell, $15 for his 34.8-pounder and Louis Guile, $10 for his 34-pounder.

Wednesday morning Don Holliday hit into a double-header off Goldstream Island and got one in—a 24.2-pounder and he thought the other one was as big.

Some big springs 20 to 30 pounds are now being taken off The Boulder and plenty of springs and a few coho are being caught in the Mill Bay ferry wharf. The Boulder, McKenzie Bay and McCurdy Point waters.

Victoria waterfront from Sooke to Sidney is still giving fair to good fishing with Otter Point, Beecher Bay, Pedder Bay and Brochies Lodge the hot spots and Trial Island and Oak Bay waters fair.

Killer whales spoiled some of the weekend fishing off the Sooke to Victoria waterfront.

Fishing in Pedder Bay Monday morning Bill Zorynaki and his 13-year-old daughter, Anna, landed a 27.0, a 23.10, and a 22.6 spring salmon before noon on 30 feet of line, eight ounces and Strip-Tearer.

Freshwater fishing has been curtailed because of the forest closure, but deep trollers have been getting them in the lakes, and Quennell Lake near Nanaimo and St. Mary Lake on Salt Spring have been giving up good bass fishing.

The Forbidden Plateau Lodge is operating despite the forest closure and horses may be hired to hike into the Plateau lakes for fishing, provided a lodge guide goes along ... and the guides are provided free.

General meeting of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association is Monday night at 8 at the Goldstream Club and program will include a demonstration, with actual firearms on view, of the evolution of the firearm from the flintlock to the cap pistol and cap ball, and from there to the modern day firearm.

Home Run Race Has U.S. Buzzing

By JACK CUBBY

NEW YORK (UPI) — If Roger Maris or Mickey Vernon achieves the magic 60 in 1961, that feat of breaking Babe Ruth's home run record will be hailed in America, at least, as the greatest sports accomplishment of the century.

Already, the tremendous interest in this unprecedented two-man pursuit race is a positive indicator that a new record would be regarded in the United States as a greater performance even than Dr. Roger Bannister's first four-minute mile.

Bobby Jones' grand slam in golf has been acclaimed through the years as an outstanding accomplishment. However, it's doubtful that even the most enthusiastic linkman would argue that Bobby is as big an American sports hero as the Babe was still is.

Unquestionably, the breaking of Ruth's record would be hailed as a greater achievement than any accomplishment by Jack Dempsey in boxing, or by Bill Tilden in tennis, or Red Grange in football, and so on.

When Bannister of Great Britain ran history's first four-minute mile on May 6, 1954, at Oxford, Eng., the performance was hailed world-wide as perhaps the outstanding sports achievement of the century. He had accomplished what many experts believed was beyond human possibilities and then created a milestone in man's development.

But Bannister's four-minute mile no longer stands out as a shining challenge like Ruth's 60-home-run figure because new 24 runners, including four Americans, have travelled the mile in less than four minutes.

In other words, the 24 runners did that within the seven years since Bannister turned the trick, but hundreds of major league batsmen have been trying to better Ruth's mark for 34 years and, thus far, all have failed.

Even baseball's dramatic performance by Johnny Vander Meer with two consecutive no-hitters, June 11 and 15, 1938, and Don Larsen's perfect World Series game, Oct. 3, 1956, are not in the stratosphere class with Ruth's record.

For sheer day-to-day interest, there hasn't been anything in American sports as engrossing as the Maris-Mantle pursuit since 1951, when the New York Giants staged their "miracle run" for the National League pennant.

That run was chased by Bobby Thomson's ninth-inning, play-off homer to win the flag, one of the most dramatic blows in baseball history. But the 1961 Maris-Mantle drama commands as much nation-wide attention that it is vying with the Berlin crisis as a conversation piece.

Now Maris has 48 home runs and Mantle has 43, and we have two country boys slugging away, from day to day, at the greatest single record in American sports. If either breaks that record he will become a national hero, showered with advertising contracts and other financial opportunities that should bring him at least $250,000 in a hurry. If both break it, they'll both be in the big chips.

'I Was Born Surly'

By JOE REICHNER

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Maris is known as The Angry Man. Even his own teammates among the New York Yankees refer to him, on occasions, as The Red-Necked Roger.

The man who today has the best chance of anybody in baseball history to shatter Babe Ruth's most fantastic of all home run records is an easy-going, amiable, but in the quietest person in the world to get along with.

"I was born surly," he says through thin lips that always seem to be smiling, "and I'm going to stay that way. Everything is tough in life."

LIKES SOLITUDE

A retiring man by nature, Maris, 26, has found it extremely difficult to cope with the comparatively sudden fame that has resulted from his dramatic battle with teammate Mickey Mantle in their twin assault on Ruth's 1927 record. A lover of solitude, he finds the almost daily questioning by reporters, radio and TV commentators extremely trying.

"You fellows are tougher than some of those pitchers," he once said testily. "Where do you think you're going to get me? How the heck do I know whether I'll break Babe Ruth's record? Besides, you're the only guys thinking about it. I don't. All I'm interested in is having a good season and winning the pennant."

BUT HE HAS DOUGH. "I'd rather have the dough than the record. And if I have a real good season, I'm going to ask for real dough next year, too."

For the record, Maris' 1961 salary is $32,500. Next year, it is expected, he will demand around $75,000, Mantle's estimated earnings this year.

Maris currently is three homers ahead of Mantle. He slammed two Wednesday, boosting his total to 45 in 119 games, including a tie. That puts him 15 games ahead of Ruth's 1927 pace. Maris has 36 games left in which to top Ruth's mark for 134 games.

Tenth-Tee Smoke Changed Picture

SASKATOON (CP) — British Columbia junior champion Terry Campbell overcame a bad case of nervous tension late Thursday to upset favored John Kindred of Peterborough, Ont., and gain a berth in today's 36-hole Canadian junior golf final against Gord Robinson of Vancouver.

Campbell, from Vancouver's Marine Drive Club, defeated medalist Kindred on the 21st hole in the tension-filled, down-to-the-wire finish.

Robinson, 1960 B.C. champion also from Marine Drive, turned back Montreal's Cliff

Batten, 4 and 5, with a fine display of putting.

Campbell and Robinson tee off early today in the 36-hole final over the Saskatoon Golf and Country Club course.

Campbell almost broke under pressure on the front nine, going three-down to Kindred, who had worked his way into the second final, with consistently good games.

TENSION MOUNTS

At the 10th tee, Campbell's hand shook noticeably as he hit a 6-iron. Sweat rolled from his forehead.

But the thin, 18-year-old Vancouver shotmaker roared back on the back nine, taking the 10th, 11th, 13th, 15th and 18th holes with fine tee shots, excellent approaches and steady putting.

They halved the 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th holes.

On the 21st, Kindred missed a two-foot downhill putt, for a one-over five. Campbell took the putt for a par four to win the match.

Robinson's putting killed Batten.

They were even after the front nine, but Robinson, 1960 runner-up in the national junior, took the 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th in a blaze of fine putting.

In the morning 18-hole quarter final, Robinson defeated Quebec star Gordon LeFichon of Montreal 2 and 1. Campbell easily outdistanced Earl Francis of Victoria 6 and 5.

Kindred defeated cool Brian Wilcox of Toronto, the defending champion, 3 and 1 in a pressure-packed round. Batten gained the semi-finals by coasting past Ron Folk of Saskatoon 7 and 6.

Leonard Wins Open Playoff

QUEBEC (CP) — Stan Leonard made a nice recovery shot on the 18th hole Thursday to beat Toronto's Al Balding in their playoff on nearby Boischatel's Royal Quebec Golf Course for the Rivermead Cup.

Leonard, of Vancouver, shot a one-under-par 71 and Balding a 73.

Their playoff preceded the 49th annual Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship which begins here this morning.

The cup goes annually to the low-scoring Canadian in the Canadian Open. But in this year's Open, held at Winnipeg July 13 to 16, the two veterans of the United States professional circuit tied with 72-hole scores of 278 which forced the playoff.

EVANS REBUILDING. Evans, Victoria and District Soccer League champions, began practices last night at S. J. Willis school and will hold another one next Tuesday at 6:30. The club is rebuilding and will have a good look at all newcomers.

AN AIRCO FURNACE GIVES YOU MORE THAN HEAT!

Look for these important extras when you choose a furnace.

Most people give a lot of attention to choosing the clothes that they wear — the car that they drive — the home that they live in. But too many take the choice of a furnace for granted!

Any automatic furnace will give you heat. The big difference is how much heat it will provide, and at what cost.

Most new furnaces look good in the showroom. The differences only show up when the furnace has been in operation in your home for a while. Then it may be too late to change!

ARE YOU CONSIDERING A NEW FURNACE?

If you are thinking of changing your present heating system to one that is more modern and efficient, or if you are looking for a heating system for your new home, you are in good company.

Some of them will be better satisfied with their new furnace than others. And those who will be most satisfied will have carefully examined not only the ability of the furnace to produce heat; they will have looked for the extra features that make their choice a sound investment for years to come.

CHECK THESE FEATURES BEFORE YOU BUY!

Here are the things you should look for when you are choosing a furnace. Experience through the years has proved that they are essential if you are going to get your money's worth from your purchase.

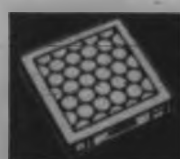

HEATING EFFICIENCY

Every gallon of heating oil or cubic foot of natural gas that you use contains a fixed amount of heat. But there is a big difference in how much of this heat your furnace will put to use, and how much it will waste. The difference is due to the basic design and construction of your furnace.

At Airco, staff engineers are constantly working on this problem of getting all the possible heat out of the fuel you use, and putting it to work in your home. Every development is thoroughly tested in the company laboratory.

While other manufacturers may adapt some of the Airco features to their particular design, only the Airco furnace has balanced engineering throughout, tested in the laboratory and in thousands of homes.

This means that every dollar that you spend on fuel buys the greatest possible amount of heat in your home. Airco's extra efficiency means big savings to you every year.

CLEAN HEAT

Both oil and gas are clean burning fuels when used in a properly made and adjusted furnace. This means that an exact balance of fuel, air and temperature must always be maintained.

Airco burners have many special features that guarantee this balance at all times.

Filters are another essential to keep clean air circulating through your house. The air filters in Airco furnaces are extra large.

They are made by Fram, and are permanently treated to trap and destroy airborne impurities, bacteria and irritating poisons. This same filter system is used successfully in many hospitals.

LONG LIFE

Like your car, or any other piece of mechanical equipment, your furnace can't run forever. But thousands of families who have Airco units in their homes for many years tell us that they have spent little or no money in replacing worn parts.

That's because, when it is a question of choosing between cost and performance on component parts, we have always insisted on quality.

For instance, all the automatic controls on the Airco furnaces are the first-line products of Honeywell Controls Ltd., a leading manufacturer with an established reputation. We couldn't get controls, at any price, that would do the job better. The same applies to motors, nozzles and fittings — in fact, all the parts that we build into the furnace. The extra dollars it costs to put these superior components into the Airco furnace are more than returned to you in reliable performance.

The Airco furnace is manufactured in our Vancouver plant. Here, every part is carefully inspected, not once, but many times. Then the whole assembled furnace is given a final inspection before it's shipped. Our laboratory is constantly in use, testing to maintain quality standards.

QUIET OPERATION

The perfect furnace is one that you never see or hear. This is not an easy thing to achieve. For one thing, you need a gentle flow of warm air in every part of your home.

In order to move this amount of air, without draughts, a powerful blower is necessary. And unless this blower is properly mounted, it can cause vibration and objectionable noise.

Airco blower units are belt-driven, powered by precision built, quiet running motors. They are bench-tested, and individually fitted to every furnace. Each unit is grounded to prevent electrical interference with radio or television sets. The heavy steel casing around the Airco furnace is thoroughly insulated against heat and sound transmission — another aid to quiet operation. The rugged heat-exchanger is also free-floating, eliminating one more possible source of noise.

PROPER INSTALLATION

Regardless of the furnace you buy, a great deal of the satisfaction you get will come from a properly designed heating system and a workmanlike installation.

Airco furnaces are sold through authorized dealers. These dealers are local community craftsmen, selected because they really know the heating business.

You can trust your Airco dealer to select the correct capacity of gas or oil furnace to meet your particular need. And you can trust him to do a conscientious, efficient job of installation.

DEPENDABILITY IS OUR FIRST RESPONSIBILITY

At Airco, we are primarily concerned with the production of top-quality furnaces and warm-air heating products. This is our main business — not just a sideline.

We have been in this business for over thirty-five years. Each year, more and more people who look for value choose Airco furnaces, so we are going to be around for a long time.

While guarantee certificates are important (and you get them with Airco not only on the entire unit, but on various individual components as well) we feel that the most important guarantee you can have is the reputation and stability of the manufacturer.

This is the most important extra of all. You get it with every Airco furnace, at no additional cost!

Takes It in Stride

Series of Foul-Ups Greet Miss Canada

Connie-Gail Feller of Ottawa, Miss Canada of 1962, ran into one mishap after another on her arrival here yesterday to model in a fashion show at the Empress Hotel.

Her troubles started when she put her best foot forward coming off the plane at Patricia Bay—practically nobody was there to admire it.

The brown-eyed beauty from down east missed connections with a welcoming committee, arrived tired at the Empress Hotel to find her personal clothes missing and became involved over what arrangements had been made for dinner.

Her travelling companion, Myrna Edel, had things under control in time for a reception and fashion show at the Empress last night.

Shapely Connie-Gail, 30, a five-foot-six brunette who was chosen Miss Canada about a week ago in the Miss Canada Pageant at Burlington, Ont., was all smiles when she finally met her welcoming committee in a hotel corridor.

She wasn't rattled about the airport incident, said Connie. "I don't remember waiting. I was so busy. Anyway, where friends are concerned, I'm never jittered."

She was supposed to have been met at the airport by Nina Holden (Miss Victoria), runner-up in the national beauty pageant, and members of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Nina Off To PNE

Nina Holden, Miss Victoria for 1961, and her two princesses, Marlene Schwaig and Audrey Thornton, leave tonight for Vancouver where they will ride the city float in the Pacific National Exhibition parade Saturday.

Boating Patrol All Set

Hot-rodding boaters using Elk Lake will have to slow down this Sunday—or face a police summons for speeding.

For on Sunday Beach police will launch their first boating patrol.

Deputy Chief Jack Hamilton said arrangements to have a constable aboard a high-powered outboard have been completed.

NO SET TIME

"There is no set time for the patrol—just when the traffic warrants," said the deputy chief.

The boat patrol officer will be chauffeured by Saanich trades licence inspector Roy Wootton.

BOAT OFFICER

Mr. Wootton, of 825 Brookleigh, offered the use of his boat to police to check complaints of safety infractions by boaters and water skiers on the lake.

The 13-foot fiberglass boat is powered by an 18-horsepower engine and has a top speed of 25 knots.

"I think the idea is a sound one and should improve boating safety on the lake," said the deputy.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Idea for a citizens' patrol of motor-boating in Greater Victoria's lakes and beaches was first advanced by C. W. Henderson, 3822 Morrison Drive, a naval chief petty officer.

The plan calls for boat owners to volunteer their services in providing boats during the summer months for police to carry out on-the-spot checks of boaters suspected of infringing on safety and boating regulations.

The idea was approved by Capt. Leslie Pamphlett, one of Saanich's representatives on the Victoria-Saanich parks and beaches committee.

Witnesses Plan Rally

Victoria Jehovah's Witnesses have completed plans to attend a three-day semi-annual circuit assembly at Nanaimo, Aug. 25 to 27.

Program will include morning, afternoon and evening sessions of Bible talks with discussions and demonstrations designed to train the delegates to be better qualified teachers.

Key speakers during the event will be Donald Mills, district supervisor, and Douglas Hostie, circuit supervisor.

Toastmasters Start Season

Toastmasters of Victoria and Duncan will launch their fall activities with a meeting to discuss leadership training to be held in Duncan on Monday.

Dismissal Appeal Hearing Begins

He Wouldn't Change Inspector Testifies

Was Curriculum Followed? Major Question at Issue

Two education officials testified at a public hearing here yesterday that a dismissed Victoria teacher refused to adhere to the prescribed B.C. schools curriculum.

Capt. Geoffrey C. D'Arcy, 1221 Vany, an industrial arts teacher at Colquitz Junior High School until his dismissal earlier this year, launched his appeal against being fired in a hearing that may last several days.

The appeal is being heard by a board of which Harold W. Tupper, a Vancouver lawyer, is chairman.

Other members are Mrs. W. E. Rucker of Nanaimo, B.C. School Trustees appointee; and G. M. Chalmers, principal of McPherson Park Junior High School, Burnaby, B.C. Teachers' Federation appointee.

J. Alan Baker is appearing for Capt. D'Arcy, and W. H. M. Haldane was Col. Harold John Strong, inspector of technical classes for the department of education, whose responsibility it is to visit industrial arts teachers in B.C. and evaluate them.

Mr. Haldane opened yesterday's proceedings by asking for the grounds for appeal.

"Proper procedure for the Board of Trustees," commented Mr. Baker, "is to submit detailed reasons for dismissal after filing notice of dismissal. If this is requested by the teacher.

"This was not done, so I understand that that is the purpose of this hearing—to review details of the whole case."

Mr. Haldane said the question at issue was: "Did D'Arcy follow the curriculum as laid down, and did he ignore instructions to do so?"

"The only thing before the board," Mr. Tupper told counsel, "is that his standards of teaching were unsatisfactory."

First witness called by Mr. Haldane was Col. Harold John Strong, inspector of technical classes for the department of education, whose responsibility it is to visit industrial arts teachers in B.C. and evaluate them.

for Grade 7 would normally complete 10 to 12 drawings, ranging from very simple to more difficult scale drawings, in a school year.

"At the end of the year they would have a good knowledge of drawing, and be able to print letters and numerals to explain them. This they gain only by drawing."

"Capt. D'Arcy's boys don't draw. He spends the bulk of his time teaching and giving the boys notes."

Referring to a report he had made on a visit to Capt. D'Arcy's class at Lanedowne Junior High school in May, 1958, Col. Strong noted that some boys had completed only one simple project in 22 hours-long classes. The norm, he said, would be four to six.

The inspector said he noted there was too much emphasis on theory and not enough on practical work.

Instructor at Colquitz

Capt. D'Arcy was instructed in industrial arts at Colquitz, and taught drafting.

Col. Strong introduced a booklet published by the department which outlines the work in each field of industrial arts, in each grade from 7 through 12, giving requirements expected.

This booklet, he said later, was the "bible" so far as procedure was concerned for industrial arts teachers in B.C.

Another booklet he produced was described as an "intelligent interpretation" of the official book.

"Capt. D'Arcy," he said, "had been a good teacher for many years, but in the last four years had drifted farther and farther away from the outlined course in his subject until he was completely away from it."

In answer to questions, Col. Strong said boys following the prescribed course in drafting for Grade 7 would normally complete 10 to 12 drawings, ranging from very simple to more difficult scale drawings, in a school year.

Slower Boys Confused

Of a visit to Capt. D'Arcy's class at Colquitz in January, 1960, Col. Strong noted in a report sent to Capt. D'Arcy that it was plain he was not following the curriculum; that the number of notes taken appeared excessive; that some of the slower boys appeared confused.

He advised them to use practice in the use of instruments.

"In March of this year, after many talks with Capt. D'Arcy," said Col. Strong, "I said I hoped he would change his methods to follow the curriculum. He said he had no intention of changing."

The inspector said he was unhappy about the notebooks kept by boys in Capt. D'Arcy's classes as they indicated lack of understanding of the terms used.

"In my opinion," the inspector told the hearing, "Capt. D'Arcy was not teaching. He was talking hour after hour on subjects which he considered important but which were not in the curriculum."

To compare with notebooks from Colquitz students, Col. Strong introduced a file of drawings by pupils in the same grade at Oak Bay Junior High School.

"This," he said, "is what should be done in these classes. I'm not fussy about notebooks at all, and I found nothing like this at Colquitz."

"Is it true," Mr. Haldane asked, "that sequential teaching is desired so that there will be no difficulty if a student changes to another school?"

"Yes."

Qualified to Carry On

"From your observation of Capt. D'Arcy's teaching would you say a boy could go on to a new grade or school qualified to carry on with the subject?"

"Not as well as if he had followed the curriculum."

Cross-examining, Mr. Baker asked Col. Strong:

"Is the test of a teacher not good pupils but whether he follows orders?"

"Whether he follows orders," came the reply.

"Isn't Capt. D'Arcy's certification the highest available to public school teachers?"

"Yes."

Col. Strong told the board teachers are expected to use their judgment and experience in teaching, but are not expected to abandon the curriculum entirely.

"Is Capt. D'Arcy's contention," he was asked, "that he is teaching the course but in a way that he considers best?"

"That is his contention."

Mr. Haldane repeated an earlier statement that the issue was not to determine relative methods of education, but whether Capt. D'Arcy did, within the directives given him, do what he was employed to do.

Second witness called was John Henry Dalgleish, supervisor of technical and adult education for School District 61.

Mr. Dalgleish said he had asked Capt. D'Arcy many times to return to the prescribed course of studies. He hadn't.

He wrote to Capt. D'Arcy last March asking him to agree to return to the prescribed course for the final quarter of the year, he testified.

After some dispute between Mr. Haldane and Mr. Baker over the wording of the question, Mr. Tupper repeated the query as it was written in Mr. Dalgleish's letter, and added:

"Did you get a simple 'yes' or 'no'?"

"I did not."

The hearing adjourned until 10 a.m. today.

Free Parking Promised In Downtown Garages

Shoppers using downtown parking garages built by city hall will be given free parking.

Two prominent downtown businessmen said last night merchants will be happy to validate parking stubs for customers.

"If someone wants to park for, say, three hours and visit a number of stores, each store could validate part of the time," one said.

"I am sure the businessmen will back up the property owners in this way if the property owners vote in favor of the city's scheme."

Yelling Indians Rehearse Dances As Drums Throb

Drums throbbed and Indians yelled long after sunset last night as 60 members of the Songhees Indian band went into final rehearsal of dances they will unveil for the public this weekend.

They will appear—in full costume—at the Long House in Esquimalt's Maple Bank Park Sunday at 3 p.m. Anyone interested in watching the band has an open invitation to attend from the whole band.

WHOO! THEIR WAY

The dancers—some of them three-year-old toddlers—whopped their way through an impromptu performance last night for reporters out on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Joseph, 1486 Admirals.

Band Chief John Albany, in a voice pitched loud enough to be heard above the drums and the hollering, offered some compelling reasons for the trouble the Indians have obviously taken to prepare their dances and costumes for public showing.

On Council

Union Finds Ally

Civic Employees Union has found an ally on city council in its bid to win for civic workers the right to run for municipal office.

Ald. M. J. Griffin said he could see no reason why employees should be "relegated to the status of second-class citizens."

UNION APPEAL

He was commenting on the union's appeal for support of the Victoria Labor Council to repeal a city bylaw which prohibits civic workers from running for office.

Civic Employees' Protective Association Local 30 said the 22-year-old bylaw is outmoded and curtails the freedom of members.

HELP ASKED

The local has asked the labor council help in having the "Duties of Municipal Officers Bylaw 2578" either rescinded or modified.

Said Ald. Griffin last night: "I imagine that would have to go through the Union of B.C. Municipalities."

The city's bylaw calls for dismissal for any employee who takes part in any campaign for council or the mayoralty, other than voting as an elector.

STAFF PROHIBITED

A session of the act specifically prohibits municipal staff from holding office.

"That is a horse of a different color," said Ald. Griffin.

British Men Lead Women In Pursuit of Scent

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON (AP) — Sniffing through statistics, the Society of French Perfumers discovered to their surprise that British men spend more on scents than do British women.

"A thoroughly deplorable situation," said a spokesman for the society Thursday, "and we're going to do something about it. High time, you might say."

"Based on trade figures reveal that British men are annually spending $250,000, $700,000, more on perfume and toilet water than do the ladies."

The more facts are known, the more the situation smells. In France, 90 per cent of all girls and women between the ages of 15 and 45 use perfume.

"In America, the percentage is 82. But in Britain, also, only 20 per cent of the women use it. And of this 20 per cent, many use it only for special occasions."

The French perfumers say many English women think it's naughty to perfume themselves — "that perfume is wrongly identified with sex."

"Sex is out of a woman's business. Women must be tempting all the time. We must seduce them."

Beginning Sept. 25, the French Society of Perfumers will mount a massive attack, spending thousands of pounds on British newspaper and magazine advertising.

Use Wine Sparingly And Never Boil It

By EDNA BLARELY

TORONTO (CP) — There are two fundamental rules to remember when cooking with wine.

Always use a little less rather than a little more, and heat, but do not boil.

That's the advice of dietitian Doris Watkins who supervises the staff dining room at Imperial Life Association of Canada.

"Cooking with wine is a fascinating deviation from every day cooking," she says.

The food should never taste of wine but just leave an elusive flavor. She suggests using wines as sparingly as you would garlic.

Adding wine to soup is a good start for the beginner. Sherry goes well with clear, cream and French onion soups — white table wine is a welcome addition to consommé or chowder — and red wine is good with vegetable or clear tomato soup.

FRENCH ONION SOUP

If you haven't a favorite French onion soup recipe, here's a suggestion from the Canadian Wine Institute. Ingredients are four medium onions, sliced; 2 tbsps. butter; 4 cups consommé or soup stock; 1 cup dry red wine; 1 tsp. sherry; salt and pepper to taste.

Sauté onions in butter until lightly browned. Add stock or consommé, wine and seasonings. Simmer 30 minutes. Place two half-slices of toast in each soup plate, add soup, sprinkle with lots of cheese and place under the broiler until cheese is slightly browned. Serve more of cheese separately.

Wine and cheese blend well and a simple way to combine the two is to cream the cheese with wine and pack in jars. Or try wrapping a mild cheese in a cloth saturated with a mild dry wine. Cover tightly and leave in a cool place for a day or two. The Institute suggests sherry or white table wine with cheddar, port with stilton and sherry with gorgonzola.

For do-it-yourself, wine-cured cheese, cut four evenly spaced cylinders from cheese. Cut a piece from the top and bottom of each cylinder and replace four pieces in the holes.

and tamp down well. Fill the holes with wine and press in four plugs. Change the position of the cheese daily thus permitting the wine to permeate the cheese.

Wine also goes into eggs in many ways. A spoonful of port or sherry can be stirred into a soft-boiled or omelette egg to lift a lagging appetite. Try poaching eggs in burgundy, then reduce the wine to use as a sauce. Hardcooked eggs may be pickled in white wine or, for a rosy garnish, in red wine. Wine also goes well into scrambled eggs, soufflés and omelettes, but remember to add just a little at a time.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I got my engagement ring last night and I wanted you to be among the first to know because I think you are responsible.

My boy friend tried to talk me into a few things which I didn't think were right. After a couple of months of battling I knew I needed outside help or I would collapse, so I sent for your booklet "Necking and Pelling and How Far To Go."

Whenever I felt myself weakening I took the booklet out of my purse and read him certain sentences. At first he said "Ann's probably a shriveled up old crow who has never had a date in her life. That picture of her must be 30 years old."

Then his brother wrote that he heard you speak and that you were not an old crow, but a fairly decent looking woman. I guess that turned the tide because from then on he stopped making fun of your booklet and last night he gave me my ring. Thanks a lot. —J.R.

Dear J.R.: You're welcome. From the tone of your letter I don't think you need to send for the follow-up booklet called "Before You Marry — Is It Love or Sex?"

Dear Ann: My husband's older sister is ruining my life. She'll be 68 next month.

answer questions and I hated it. It seems very odd to kids that brothers should not have the same last name. Unless children are almost grown, it is my firm belief that their names should be changed when their mother changes hers. —ODD MAN OUT.

Confidential to FOO-FARM FRANK: A wife who goes so completely wild with the charge accounts should be put on a limited allowance. She sounds ill.

Last week we were packed to leave on a fishing trip up north. She phoned at 2 a.m. to say she was having a heart attack. We rushed over there and the doctor said she had a slight muscle spasm in her left arm. (I'll bet she'd been playing the slot machine.)

My husband says he knows she's a liar but if anything happened to her while he was away he'd never forgive himself. What can I do? —CANT COPE.

Dear Cope: If your husband knows she's a liar and continues to fall for her dramatics then he's pretty buggy, too. It sounds as if Ruth travels it up pretty good. Why not plan your trips to coincide with hers? Then if she has a heart attack in Las Vegas while you are in Wisconsin your husband will be able to forgive himself.

Dear Ann Landers: You gave the right answer to that woman who wanted to know if she should change her son's last name so that it would be the same as his stepfather's. My mother was a widow, too, and when she remarried I had to keep my blood father's name because it said so in the will. My stepfather had sons and it was hard for me to accept them as brothers for a long time because of the different last names.

Let Tots Choose Own Toys

By JOYCE SCHULKER

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mother doesn't know what's good for junior. At least not when it comes to toys.

That's the word of toy designer Marvin Glass, whose highly successful creations include a doll that pukes up and kimes and a "hungry piggy" that eats at the table. Glass has no use for parents who buy the kind of educational toys which try to teach a child words, numbers, or colors.

"Those parents buy toys in bad conscience," he said. "They don't really approve of a child having fun."

"They're always pushing their young to learn something, to have something to show for all the time they waste playing."

Glass, a dour clad himself, believes the only function of a toy should be to amuse.

He's all for toy pistols, for instance, "because you can take away a fellow's cap gun, but not the aggression he takes out with it," Glass said. "Small boys need to make a big noise."

Glass berated parents who buy toys too old for their children. "Manufacturers play on the egotism of parents in this respect," he said. "A toy recommended for 3 to 5 year-olds is generally too complicated for 3-year-olds, but the parents of 3-year-olds buy it every time. You can't tell them their youngsters aren't the mental equal of any 5-year-old!"

Chain of Weaknesses Blamed in Mars Crash

By TED PULFORD

Death of four men in the flaming ruin of a Martin Mars water bomber, when it crashed near Northwest Bay June 23, has been blamed by a B.C. unionist on "poor planning, poor co-ordination and poor communications."

The charge was levelled in Victoria yesterday by International Woodworkers of America safety expert John T. Atkinson.

FLAMING FINISH

He says the accident—which wrote a flaming finish to plans for extensive use of the Mars in fire control work this year—resulted from a chain of events set in motion by three organizational weaknesses.

"Here's the way I believe the accident happened," said Mr. Atkinson, who carried out his own on-the-spot probe into the crash.

ONE MESSAGE

"The ground crew fighting the fire near Northwest Bay received one message from the water bomber saying it would be over target in two minutes."

"These men didn't know what direction the plane was coming from—nobody had told them—so instead of splitting up and clearing a path, one group ran toward the plane, another away from it."

ANOTHER PANS

"The plane never sent another message, but I believe that the pilot saw those dozens of men squirming about on the ground below, became afraid that the huge load of water would hurt them, and attempted to draw off for another pass."

"It was then he hit the tree." Main point in Mr. Atkinson's theory is that the giant plane never unleashed the torrent of water from its tanks.

TOO SIMPLE

"The mechanism couldn't possibly have failed him. It was too simple, too positive, too well tested. The pilot never let that water go because he decided at the last moment to make another pass after the men had scrambled clear."

"He tried to turn away to

On-the-Spot Investigation Conducted

do just that—and the decision killed him."

After interviewing many of the men who watched the mighty Mars plunge to its death with a crew of four Vancouver Island flyers, Mr. Atkinson asked some harsh questions which he claims nobody has answered.

"Why didn't anybody know the bomber's planned flight path so that the area could be cleared?"

"Why did the firefighters on the ground not receive sufficient warning before the bomber arrived?"

"Why didn't all the field parties—and the aircraft—have a proper communications system?"

He said development of safe tactics in use of the Mars will

Campfires Still Under Suspension

Forest Closure Partially Lifted

The general forest closure in the Vancouver forest district, which includes Vancouver Island, has been partially lifted as a result of the changed weather pattern.

Announcement of the ending of restrictions was made at noon yesterday by chief forester S. S. McKinnon, who said cooler temperatures, rain showers and increased humidity had relieved the fire hazard.

Travel is again permitted in the woods and industry is permitted to operate on partly shift in the southern half of Vancouver Island, (south of Bowen).

But campfire permits in this section remain under suspension.

North of Bowen to Kelsey Bay, the lighter and scattered rain pattern has made it impossible to lift the general forest closure. This means travel other than on public highways remains restricted.

The unimpaired section of the forest service officer said.

B.C. School Eye Chart Inadequate

An eye test chart used in B.C. schools is inadequate according to a noted American vision specialist.

Dr. A. M. Steddington, of St. Louis Mo., who is conducting a two-day seminar for optometrists at the Empress Hotel, scored the distance vision Snellen Chart test used here as "hopelessly incomplete and inadequate" as a single dependency "testing" for children, pointing out it should be one of a battery of specific tests.

EARLY AGE

He said it was important that a child's visual development, as well as his physical development, be checked at as early an age as possible. He said this could be at six months old, but certainly no later than three years of age. The first seminar was held last night. Today's sessions will be at 10 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m.

A wage increase and minor fringe benefit adjustments for inside and outside staffs have been agreed upon by members of the Saanich Municipal Employees' Union and Finance Committee.

The agreement, which was reached after four months' negotiations, still requires Saanich council approval before it can be put into effect. Laborers would get an eight-cent an-hour increase, bringing them to parity with Victoria outside staff at $1.30 an hour, union spokesman A. P. Raymond said.

Inside and outside workers in other categories would receive a three-cent an-hour boost and minor fringe benefit increases.

Lawn Dressing Vital

By M. V. CHENUT, FRAS

Every time I go to a party or a reception, someone with a gleam in his eye backs me into a corner and proceeds to pick my brain. "Tell me, Mr. Chenut," he says. "Two years ago, I was told that you were an expert on lawn dressing. Which is best for your lawn—top dressing or a bag of fertilizer?"

This is like asking which is the most important food to sustain human life, air or food. Both are needed and they fill two entirely different functions. Humans—and plants—must have food, but we must also have a congenial environment in which to live.

Chemical fertilizers are essential for a good lawn and it is impossible to keep it green and lush without these nutrients. But fertilizer should be in addition to top dressing, not as a substitute. Fertilizers provide the necessary food but do nothing whatever to maintain a comfortable and congenial environment. Only top dressing can do anything for the soil texture.

We have an almost unlimited choice of materials for top-dressing the lawn. Very old manure, so well rotted as to be almost unrecognizable as such, is wonderful stuff for this job as you can use a mixture of manure and really good topsoil. A lot of folks are worried about weed seeds in such a dressing, and nine times out of ten you'll get them, but I wouldn't worry too much about this. On an established lawn, weeds are quite easy to eradicate with our modern selective weedkillers.

Other good top dressings for a lawn—and used-free, too—are peat moss, Blue Whale, Fertibulch, vermiculite and perlite. All somewhat more expensive than manure but doing an excellent job in improving soil texture.

Under certain conditions, coarse sand is an ideal top dressing for a lawn. Where your soil contains a high proportion of clay, hard cracks will appear during the summer months. This is because clay has a high coefficient of expansion, shrinking as it loses moisture in dry weather, and there is no better way to combat this tendency than to brush lots of really coarse sand into the cracks every time they appear.

With manure or topsoil, or a mixture of the two, it is wise to sift your material through a half-inch sieve before spreading. Not only is the sifted material easier to spread evenly, sifting down mainly between the blades of grass, but each sifting will take out any sticks, stones or lumps, which is very important where a rotary power mower is used.

Incidentally, while I am on the subject of rotary mowers, always keep a careful eye open for plastic bags on the lawn. I am told that better than 50 per cent of all accidents and wounds caused by foreign objects thrown out from power mowers are from this source.

I don't think it matters too much what time of the year a top dressing is applied, although the drier the weather and the drier the material, the easier it is to spread. I have some preference for a fall application as I think the heavy action of autumnal frosts and thawing during the winter tends to work the dressing down into the soil.

Little and often should be the rule for top dressing, as a too-heavy application at one time may smother the grass. A half-inch layer is sufficient and should be worked in with the rake so the tips of the grass are clear of the dressing.

Comedy Is Grim Business

MUNICH — Billy Wilder is a slender, round-faced, impish pixie from Vienna whose pictures—"Sunset Boulevard," "The Lost Weekend," "Love in the Afternoon," "Some Like It Hot," and "The Apartment"—have never failed to delight me for many reasons, not the least of which is a full, slightly cynical tolerance and understanding of human frailty. Wilder's pictures have something that is becoming increasingly rare in American pictures, a point of view, but the point of view remains essentially European.

To preserve the purity of his point of view, Wilder is indisputably the boss. Of everything. The picture he's making here, "One, Two, Three," is an adaptation of a Ferenc Molnar one-act play he'd seen in Berlin 35 years ago. In short, even the idea started with Billy. He wrote the script in association with J. A. L. Diamond, who had collaborated with him on the screenplays of "The Apartment," "Some Like It Hot," and "Love in the Afternoon." Billy is director. Billy is producer. And Billy is boss.

The other day I watched him shoot a scene, pacing, pacing, head down, smoking furiously. "I tried to get him a pedometer to find out how much he walks during a picture," said Diamond. "You know they don't make pedometers any more."

Well, please, said Billy. Jimmy Cagney started to deliver a very complicated speech at triphammer speed, the part of a neurotic salesman of Coca-Cola in West Germany and the part calls for a paralyzing speed of delivery.

"Completely unacceptable," staccatoed Cagney, looking at a pair of shoes, "these are full of holes. I'll take these and those. Now what have we here?" This to a salesman with a whole rack of new suits. "Too loud! Too quiet! This is all right, but take the padding out of the shoulders. Belt in the back! I thought that went out with high button shoes!" Cagney got through about a yard and a half of dialogue and then he blew sky high on one line: "Where's the morning coat and striped trousers?"

"Oh, nuts," said Cagney. "Take it a little slower, Jimmy. Don't swallow the 'assie'," said Billy. "Let's try it again."

Seventeen takes later, Cagney still had not got past "Where is the morning coat and striped trousers?" line which was bugging his body. This time he made it. There was a heart-sickening pause. A bit player was supposed to make an entrance here. He didn't, wrecking the one good take.

"We've had many days like this with Marilyn Monroe," said Diamond. "The difference is that Marilyn could blow a two-word speech 25 times. She even blew 'Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.' She said, 'Happy Christmas and Merry New Year.'"

On the fifty-second take—an all-time record for both Cagney and Wilder—everything fell into place. Cagney got every word out. "Okay, print it," said Billy sourly.

Later, over dinner, he confessed the scene still wasn't right. It would have to be re-shot. This is the worst day I've had in 32 years of making pictures. It's the fohn.

"The fohn," I asked. "The fohn. It's a wind that comes down from the Alps and drives everyone crazy. Really! People get depressed. Kill their wives! Commit suicide! Actors forget their lines!" Comedy is a grim business.

Hollywood Today

Harvey to Take Plunge

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—It's a matter of days for the Laurence Harvey-Jean Cabot marriage. Larry and Jean Cabot's widow have been "on the verge" many times. They are now ready for the plunge.

I came home to find a and Robert J. Wagner. Five weeks ago his reconciliation with wife Natalie Wood seemed sure. But Natalie seems now to have changed her mind—and the reason is Warren Beatty, for whom she has really flipped. Natalie has rented a house in Bel Air, and will file for divorce soon.

With Fabian, Paul Anka, Bobby Vee, Bobby Rydell, Ricky Nelson and Frankie Avalon on tap for Uncle Sam's army, there could be room for Nelson Baby and Sandy Vallee to make comebacks. Ricky, by the way, was a huge success in his recent Atlantic City engagement.

Anthony Quinn, who tries to keep fit, rides a bicycle from his Appian Way villa in Rome to the studio where he is starring in "Barabbas." The Quinns have all their children with them. Son Mark plays the guitar, an older son the banjo, and his small daughter the piano. They must be good because none of the neighbors have complained of the noise.

Darryl Zanuck shot $300,000 of color film for "De Luxe Tour" which has now been abandoned. But the money and film will not be wasted. He will put it all into one of the four movies he will make here next year.

Quite a situation at the Dominion Theatre in London where "South Pacific" has been running for four and a half years. When the box-office takes sag to a certain figure, the picture will be taken off and Sam Goldwyn's "Fanny and Alexander" will go in. Sam has been waiting for four years. In July, there was a sag, and Goldwyn made ready—but, before he could move in, the box office bounced back. So Sam is still waiting!

New Yorkers will have a chance to see Paul Bonfield, one of England's finest actors, who comes to Broadway in November with the London hit, "A Man For All Seasons." I think they will like him.

Strange that the two biggest movie hits in Paris, "Tomb Raider" and "Passage de Rhine," glorify a German soldier. They were both made by French companies.

Council Backs Airport Move

CYO Group To Wash Cars

A 70-cent car wash is being offered by the Regener Catholic Youth Organization tonight.

Customers will be welcomed at Hurlbitt's Shell Service at Fort and Ford Bay between 7 and 9:30 p.m.

City council has decided to support a move to have the provincial government help in establishing airports in areas which do not qualify for federal government grants.

A resolution to this effect will come before the annual convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities to be held in Vernon Sept. 27, 28 and 29.

Council's decision was made on the recommendation of city manager C. G. Wyatt.

Mr. Wyatt pointed out that provincial government aid might help the city build a heliport in the future.

Council also decided to press strongly for re-adequation of Thos Lake Park as a game reserve. The reserve, which covered part of the park area, was removed by order-in-council July 6.

High Speeds Cost Youth Fine of $100

A high-speed chase through Victoria's downtown streets last week led to 19-year-old James D. Justice, 1419 Mount Douglas having his driver's licence suspended and being fined $100 in city police court yesterday.

At the same session, Cornelius Fisher, 322 Gorge Road, pleaded guilty to violation of the Social Services Tax Act and was fined $10 on each of four counts.

Two minors were fined at Seanch court for being in possession of liquor. Fines of $20 each were levied on Lorne Bruce Erickson, 910 Falmouth, and John Rousseau, 10831 McDonald Park Drive.

Two Women 'Satisfactory'

Two women who survived a 10-foot drop and near-drowning when their car plunged through a guard rail at the Gorge Bridge on Tuesday, were reported in satisfactory condition in St. Joseph's Hospital last night.

Mrs. Erna Simpson, 44, 3670 Cedar Hill and Mrs. Christine Daunhauser, 28, 1625 Mount View, were pulled from the icy waters of the Gorge minutes after their car plunged to the rocks and bounced off into the water.

City Firms to Bid On Research Ship

Two city shipyards will bid on a contract for construction of a federal government research vessel to be built on the west coast.

Speakers for Yarrow, Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot announced that their firms would bid for construction of the vessel which is to be used for oceanographic work.

A total of three research vessels will be built for Canada's hydrographic fleet. Minister Compton announced in Halifax yesterday.

Save Colwood Fund Now Totals $251

Donations to a fund to save the B.C. Agricultural Association from bankruptcy total $251.

The fund was opened Aug. 7 with a $100 donation from Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the BCAA. At that time he said the association needed $5,000 to meet bills and to enable it to carry on.

A benefit variety show to help raise money for the fund will be held in Memorial Arena tonight.

Tickets, $1 for adults and 50 cents for children, are available at Eaton's box office and at the Memorial Arena.

Sidney Band at PNE

A band from Sidney has a chance to hit the big time because of the Pacific National Exhibition.

The Twisters, a rock-n-roll combo from Sidney, was one of 18 bands in the province chosen to play in competition at the PNE for a $1,000 prize and a recording contract with London Records.

Band members are Barry Carson on the drums, Woe Chambers, saxophone, Lee Liliwin, lead guitar; Bruce Johnson, second guitar and Johnnie Coleman, vocalist.

Anti-Japan Bias Laid to Canada By Recent Visitor

Canada's immigration policy discriminates against Japan and should be revised in the interests of trans-Pacific peace, James K. Nesbitt told Oak Bay Kiwanis Club at Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

"We want trade with Japan, we say we want friendly relations with a close neighbor only 14 hours away across the Pacific, yet we insult these people by hanging out a sign on our door, 'No Japanese allowed,'" Mr. Nesbitt said.

"The people of Japan feel this very much," he said. "They don't say a great deal about it, but they are hurt, and I don't blame them. We should have controlled immigration from Japan, even as few as 150 a year. We permit almost uncontrolled immigration from Europe, yet because of our color and racial bias, we are keeping out of Canada some of the best brains, best trained, and most highly skilled people in the world."

Mr. Nesbitt told of a recent visit to Japan, which he called "a country of fascination and enchantment—a country of frightening proportions, still, a well-dressed, well-educated people, crammed into an area one-third the size of British Columbia."

The old Japan, he said, is

Red Defector Carried No Secrets

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Mikhail Antonovich Klotchko, brilliant English-speaking Russian authority on electrochemistry, rested Thursday from the emotional strain of climaxing two years of planning to break away in search of intellectual and scientific freedom.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the Stalin and Lenin prize-winning scientist made no hasty decision to forsake his Communist homeland in favor of Canada when he asked for asylum on Tuesday night during a visit here.

Canada Seeks Ocean Study Leadership

HALIFAX (CP)—Canada aims to become a world leader in scientific study of the oceans, Mines Minister Comtois said Thursday as he announced plans for three new hydrographic and oceanographic ships to join the growing federal government fleet.

SHIP LAUNCHED

Mr. Comtois was here for the launching of the new hydrographic ship Maxwell. Mrs. Comtois christened the 115-foot vessel, which cost $450,000 and will carry a crew of 20.

HUGE PROGRAM

The mines minister said "the Maxwell represents the first unit in a multi-million-dollar shipbuilding program which when completed, will enable Canada to gather a store of oceanographic and hydrographic information."

Justice Minister Fulton, responsible for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police protective protection being given Dr. Klotchko in some secluded nearby hide-away, dismissed a reporter's suggestion that the doctor of chemical science might have brought important military secrets with him to the Western allies.

WANTS TO WORK

Dr. Klotchko is a specialist in inorganic chemistry and author of scientific papers on electrolysis and conductivity. He wants to continue his work in Canada.

The RCMP said he was interviewed by three officials of the Russian embassy, in the presence of Canadian diplomats and police, and declined all their appeals for him to return to his country. His decision to forsake the Iron Curtain regimentation for Western freedom was final.

'GOOD REASON'

"There were many good reasons given to him as to why he should return to the Soviet Union but at the end of the meetings Dr. Klotchko made it quite clear to the Soviet officials that he requested asylum in Canada for good and sufficient reason and he still maintained these views," the RCMP statement said.

"He saw no reason why he should change his mind."

Bill's Blast Off Earns Him Holiday

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—To the list of cosmonauts and astronauts you can add the name of Bill Daum—Canada's new can-o-naut.

Daum, 35, didn't go into orbit but he did get off the ground in a blast-off Wednesday which surprised him more than anyone else.

Daum was sitting on an empty paint-thinner can welding a piece of metal. He accidentally touched the can with his welding rod.

Whoosh! The can exploded and Daum shot into the air. He landed on his feet.

He wasn't injured but the company sent him home for the day. They said it was a sort of compassionate leave.

Soviet Scientist To Break Silence

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Michail Antonovich Klobukhov, brilliant English-speaking Russian authority on electrochemistry, said last night he would hold a press conference today to give his personal account of how and why he hid for Canadian asylum. (See earlier story, Page 2.)

TCA Flies Despite Walkout

MONTREAL (CP)—An emergency meeting of union and company negotiators is to be held early today to try to end a walkout of more than 1,300 Trans-Canada Air Lines maintenance men who walked off their jobs Thursday night.

The employees, members of the International Association of Machinists (IAM), staged what the company described as a "wildcat action" to attend a union meeting in suburban Westmount.

MASS MEETING

The employees meeting broke up after midnight when unanimous approval was given for a "24-hour mass meeting" to be continued at 8 a.m. today.

Cause of the walkout appeared to be a change in work shifts. TCA affected at its giant 1,700-employee engineering and maintenance base at Montreal International Airport.

'BELT-TIGHTENING'

The shift change, a TCA spokesman said, "is all part of a belt-tightening policy by TCA."

Remaining flights Thursday night were handled by supervisory personnel and a private company hired by TCA to handle baggage.

FLIGHTS ON

The company spokesman said the airline will try to maintain normal flights today although the company could only use aircraft which were "serviceable and flying at the moment."

Victor Rykus, a union executive, told the employees' mass meeting the Canadian Air Line Pilots' Association had refused to fly TCA planes not serviced by union members.

TCA appeared to be abiding by this apparent ruling by the CAOPA, none of whose executives could be reached immediately.

Speaks Today

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is to address the German Parliament in Bonn today on the allied approach to the Berlin crisis.

No Revolt Likely In East Berlin

By JANE ARMSTRONG

BERLIN (TNS)—East Berlin is a dead city, but there is no immediate sign of revolt.

I walked freely through streets that were almost deserted, looked in the meagre shops and talked to the green-uniformed members of the People's Police, the People's Army and the factory militia. Civilian East Berliners hustled by me clutching briefcases or shopping bags. No civilian wanted to be seen or overheard talking to a foreigner.

WENT ON FOOT

I had to go on foot because of the ban on car travel from West Berlin.

After a searching look around the city I predict that despite the depressing evidence of Communism's failure, there will be no East Berlin revolt.

Behind me, I left a West Berlin bustling with normal city life, its sleek boulevards glittering in summer rain. Shops were open and busy, the cafes full. Not one armed soldier was to be seen.

MINISTER BARRED WIRE
Wherever I went moving from West toward the East I came up against the sinister coil of barbed wire that snakes along the boundary and seals the 80 points where provincial Fair Employment Practices Act was passed in 1954.

Nationalities found in city hall files yesterday were:

Austrian, Austrian, Chinese, Cuban, Danish, Dutch, East Indian, English, Finnish, French, German, Hungarian, Indian, Irish, Italian, Malayan, Mexican, Negro, Norwegian, Polish, Portuguese, Russian, Scotch, Swedish, Ukrainian, American, Welsh and Yugoslavian.

And, he added, they are not compelled to answer those questions.

Mr. Wyatt made the comment when a Colonist reporter obtained copies of three standard job application forms at the city hall personnel office. The applications—for inside workers, outside workers and firemen—all include the two questions.

The 19 different religions found in personnel files were: Church of England, Baptist, Christian Brethren, Christian Reform, Christian Science, Jehovah Witnesses, Church of the Latter Day Saints, Lutheran, Methodist, Greek Orthodox, Plymouth Brethren, Presbyterian, Protestant, Roman Catholic, Salvation Army, Serbian Orthodox, Seventh Day Adventist, Sikh and United Church.

"Quite frequently, because we have such a cosmopolitan group, we use members of our staff for translators," Mr. Wyatt said.

"The only purpose it might serve for us to have a record of an employee's religion is in the event of somebody being fatally stricken or injured during work. In that case we could find a minister or priest of the employee's religion."

The check of employee application forms was made after Ald. Michael Griffin asked seven pointed questions about the matter at Wednesday's council meeting.

Ald. Griffin wanted to know why applicants are asked nationality and religion and what bearing the answers have on the appointment of a new employee.

He told the council the two questions appeared to contravene the Fair Employment Practices Act. The list of questions was referred to Mr. Wyatt for answer.

YOUTHS CALLED UP BY REDS AS BERLIN TENSION GROWS

BERLIN (UPI)—Communist East Germany announced yesterday the "voluntary" mobilization of its 2,000,000-member youth movement to fight if necessary over Berlin. At the same time France and Britain joined the United States in bolstering their armed forces in Germany.

The toughening attitude on both sides of the closed Berlin border was reflected in strongly worded notes the Western Big Three gave Russia yesterday protesting recent Communist measures in Berlin and warning the Soviets of the grave danger they posed.

NEW ATTACKS MADE

Communist propaganda machines unleashed new attacks on Western "warmongering" but also members of the Communist People's Police fled across the border with their weapons in an indication of growing fears in East Germany. Eight doctors fled, making even more critical the medical shortage in the Soviet zone.

POLICE ARRESTED

A series of border incidents yesterday heightened the tension. In one incident armed German police arrested a British military police patrol and detained the men three hours. Other border guards turned back Bishop Otto Dibelius, Evangelical bishop of all Berlin, as he tried to enter East Berlin.

The U.S. army, navy and air force already had announced major moves to call up reserves and increased the draft to bolster armed strength in face of the growing Berlin crisis.

President de Gaulle of France cut short his vacation and sped to Paris for a meeting with the National Defense Committee. Shortly afterwards the government announced France is increasing its military and air force strength both in West Germany and in France itself.

The British air ministry announced it would send a "limited reinforcement" of Royal Air Force Javelin all-weather jet fighters to Germany. Other British sources said Britain would bring the British army of the Rhine to its full strength of 35,000 men.

'ARMY' SUPPLEMENTED

Conscription of the Communist youths, members of the "Free German Youth" (FDJ) would supplement the 110,000-man "People's Army" the West contends the Reds have moved into East Berlin illegally, the 78,000 "People's Police" and the 300,000-man workers militia.

This "army" is backed up by a Soviet force of 22 divisions, about 400,000 men.

'DEFEND REPUBLIC'

The "voluntary" mobilization was announced in the organization's newspaper Young World.

"The fatherland is calling!" its headlines read. "Defend the socialist republic!"

BORDER TOUNED

Despite the Communists' detention of the British patrol yesterday, they made no effort to halt British Ambassador Sir Christopher Steel when he drove across the border with the Union Jack flying from his car. He toured the border for 25 minutes.

Steel said he had been impressed with the "extraordinary calm and fortitude" which West Berliners were facing the present crisis.

In contrast, the East Berlin press carried inflammatory articles aimed at whipping up fear and hatred of the West.

FLIGHT GOES ON

The East German Democratic League of Women issued a statement accusing the West of stoking up the cold war to make it a hot war. The women accused Western agents of "kidnapping children, tearing families apart and trying to destroy our happiness."

Despite such propaganda and the presence of guards at the crossing, some refugees managed to get across the border during the night and day.

BERLINERS HEARTENED

Unseen West Berliners, who have criticized the West for failing to take strong enough measures against the Communists, took heart as the allies delivered their notes to the Kremlin and announced their military build-up plans.

Saanich Hopes High Despite Unpaid Bill

Deadline for the payment of Saanich taxes placed at 5 p.m. yesterday and no cheque was received from the newly-"nationalized" B.C. Electric.

But Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of the board of directors of the Crown corporation, told the Colonist last night a meeting of the board will be held soon to consider the payment of taxes to municipalities which include B.C. Electric property.

And Saanich comptroller-treasurer John Tribe said he is confident the $80,000 tax bill will be paid.

ON ITS MERITS

Public Works Minister W. N. Clark, a senior member of the provincial cabinet, commented that the matter will have to be considered on its merits.

Dr. Shrum said a meeting of the board will be held "after Labor Day," when former Lieutenant-Governor Frank

Ross, a member of the board, will return from vacation.

"We haven't decided on the payment of taxes to municipalities yet. This matter will be discussed at the next meeting."

A legal authority said yesterday it is not likely that the Crown corporation will be liable to pay penalty taxes for late payments, if the board does agree to pay the taxes.

OWNERS LIABLE

Mr. Tribe bases his belief that the taxes will be paid on a section of the provincial Municipal Act which states the owner of a property at the time the assessment roll is prepared in November is liable to pay taxes on the property when they fall due the following year.

Tunisia Turns Down French Talks Offer

PARIS (UPI)—France said yesterday it had asked Tunisia to open direct negotiations on the Bizerte crisis but Tunisia has refused.

The foreign ministry said the call for talks was sent to the Tunisians Friday.

"The Tunisian government has declined our offer," it added. "It has let it be known in Paris . . . that it did not esteem it advantageous to start negotiations merely to normalize the situation in Bizerte."

France said its withdrawal of one paratroop regiment from Bizerte is evidence of its desire to bring the situation back to normal.

But it warned that Tunisian demonstrations planned in the area today might lead to incidents that could renew the fighting.

Tunisia is believed unwilling to hold talks on the dispute now because the United Nations will take it up next week in a special session.

City Hall Miniature United Nations

By TED BRACKLEY

Applicants for city hall jobs are asked for their nationality and religion but the answers play no part in making employment decisions, city manager C. C. Wyatt said bluntly yesterday.

And, he added, they are not compelled to answer those questions.

Mr. Wyatt made the comment when a Colonist reporter obtained copies of three standard job application forms at the city hall personnel office. The applications—for inside workers, outside workers and firemen—all include the two questions.

"In recent years the city has employed persons with 38 different nationalities, including Canadian," he said. "And our employees have belonged to 19 different religious bodies."

"These forms have been in use for several decades with few changes, long before the provincial Fair Employment Practices Act was passed in 1954.

Nationalities found in city hall files yesterday were:

Austrian, Austrian, Chinese, Cuban, Danish, Dutch, East Indian, English, Finnish, French, German, Hungarian, Indian, Irish, Italian, Malayan, Mexican, Negro, Norwegian, Polish, Portuguese, Russian, Scotch, Swedish, Ukrainian, American, Welsh and Yugoslavian.

The 19 different religions found in personnel files were: Church of England, Baptist, Christian Brethren, Christian Reform, Christian Science, Jehovah Witnesses, Church of the Latter Day Saints, Lutheran, Methodist, Greek Orthodox, Plymouth Brethren, Presbyterian, Protestant, Roman Catholic, Salvation Army, Serbian Orthodox, Seventh Day Adventist, Sikh and United Church.

Takes It in Stride

Series of Foul-Ups Greet Miss Canada

Connie-Gail Feller of Ottawa, Miss Canada of 1962, ran into one mixup after another on her arrival here yesterday to model in a fashion show at the Empress Hotel.

Her troubles started when she put her best foot forward coming off the plane at Patricia Bay—practically nobody was there to admire it.

The brown-eyed beauty from down east, misadventures with a welcoming committee, arrived tired at the Empress Hotel to find her "personal clothes missing and became involved over what arrangements had been made for dinner.

Her travelling companion, Myrna Elmi, had things under control in time for a reception and fashion show at the Empress last night.

Shapely Connie-Gail, 20, a five-foot-six brunet who was chosen Miss Canada about a week ago in the Miss Canada Pageant at Burlington, Ont., was all smiles when she finally met her welcoming committee in a hotel corridor.

She wasn't miffed about the airport incident, said Connie. "I don't remember waiting, I was so busy. Anyway, where friends are concerned, I'm never jilted."

She was supposed to have been met at the airport by Nina Holden (Miss Victoria), runner-up in the national beauty pageant, and members of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Delayed by Traffic

Trouble started some time before Miss Canada's arrival, when Jaycee Maurice Cownden, who was supposed to take Miss Victoria to the airport, was delayed by traffic.

"I allowed time to get there. I picked up Mrs. Mary Rayner (rehearsal) at the Shelbourne shopping plaza, picked up Nina at her home in Esquimalt, took shortcuts, hit detours, got behind heavy trucks. It seemed there was a pedestrian at every crosswalk," he said.

"I felt two feet high when I finally got there," said Mr. Cownden. "I was 40 minutes late and she had taken a limousine to the hotel."

Long-Distance Call

An earlier mixup on a long-distance telephone call to Vancouver led Jaycee to believe the welcoming committee was having dinner with Miss Canada, while fashion show promoters intended the dinner to be held during the scheduled reception.

When Connie Gail came down from her room, dressed like a queen, Mr. Cownden introduced himself and said, "I'm the villain of the piece."

"How do you do, I'm pleased to know you," said Miss Canada, and turning to Nina Holden, she said, "I hope I didn't keep you waiting."

The party went downstairs for coffee. A hotel employee dropped an empty cup on the floor and Miss Victoria jokingly quipped, "It's everybody's bad day, don't feel bad."

Connie declined coffee, saying she never drinks coffee or tea. "I drink milk, lots of it. Every night before I go to bed I have a tall glass of milk with a cookie, or I just don't sleep right."

"Do you realize how high the mattresses are here," she asked. "They're up to here," she said, standing up and pointing to her waist.

Only thing which disturbed her soon was a bee near the chandelier. "I heard a buzzing,

I looked up. It was a bee. Nothing scares me more, not even a mouse. I killed it with a roll of newspaper."

Miss Canada, whose vital statistics are 35½, 23½, 35½, will be modelling hosiery during her brief stay in Victoria.

Key speakers during the event will be Donald Mills, district supervisor, and Douglas Hols, circuit supervisor.

Boating Patrol All Set

Hot-rodging boaters using Elk Lake will have to slow down this Sunday—or face a police summons for speeding.

For on Sunday Saanich police will launch their first boating patrol.

Deputy Chief Jack Hamilton said arrangements to have a constable aboard a high-powered outboard have been completed.

NO SET TIME
"There is no set time for the patrol—just when the traffic warrants," said the deputy chief.

The boat patrol officer will be chauffeured by Saanich trades licence inspector Roy Wooten.

BOAT OFFERED
Mr. Wooten, of 235 Brookleigh, offered the use of his boat to police to check complaints of safety infractions by boaters and water skiers on the lake.

The 13-foot fiberglass boat is powered by an 18-horsepower engine and has a top speed of 28 knots.

"I think the idea is a sound one and should improve boating safety on the lake," said the deputy.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED
Idea for a citizens' patrol of motor-boating in Greater Victoria's lakes and beaches was first advanced by C. W. Henderson, 3822 Merriman Drive, a naval chief petty officer.

The plan calls for boat owners to volunteer their services in providing boats during the summer months for police to carry out on-the-spot checks of boaters suspected of infringing safety and boating regulations.

The idea was approved by Coun. Louis Passmore, one of Saanich's representatives on the Victoria-Saanich parks and beaches committee.

Dismissal Appeal Hearing Begins

He Wouldn't Change Inspector Testifies

Was Curriculum Followed? Major Question at Issue

Two education officials testified at a public hearing here yesterday that a dismissed Victoria teacher refused to adhere to the prescribed B.C. schools curriculum.

Capt. Geoffrey C. D'Arcy, LEI Vimy, an industrial arts teacher at Colquitz Junior High School until his dismissal earlier this year, launched his appeal against being fired in a hearing that may last several days.

The appeal is being heard by a board of which Harold W. Tupper, a Vancouver lawyer, is chairman.

Other members are Mrs. W. E. Hickey of Nanaimo, B.C. School Trustees appellate; and C. M. Chalmers, principal of McPherson Park Junior High School, Burnaby, B.C. Teachers' Federation appellate.

J. Alana Baker is appearing for Capt. D'Arcy, and W. H. M. Haldane for Greater Victoria School District No. 61.

Mr. Haldane opened yesterday's proceedings by asking for the grounds for appeal.

"Proper procedure for the Board of Trustees," countered Mr. Baker, "is to submit detailed reasons for dismissal, if this is requested by the teacher."

"This was not done, so I understand that that is the purpose of this hearing—to review details of the whole case."

Mr. Haldane said the question at issue was "Did D'Arcy follow the curriculum as laid down, and did he ignore instructions to do so?"

"The only thing before the board," Mr. Tupper told counsel, "is that his standards of teaching were unsatisfactory."

First witness called by Mr. Haldane was Col. Harold John Strong, inspector of technical classes for the department of education, whose responsibility it is "to visit industrial arts teachers in B.C. and evaluate them."

Instructor at Colquitz

Capt. D'Arcy was instructor in industrial arts at Colquitz, and taught drafting.

Col. Strong introduced a booklet published by the department which outlines the work in each field of industrial arts, in each grade from 7 through 12, giving requirements expected.

This book, he said later, was the "bible" so far as procedure was concerned for industrial arts teachers in B.C.

Another booklet he produced was described as an "intelligent interpretation" of the official book.

"Capt. D'Arcy," he said, "has been a good teacher for many years, but in the last four years had drifted farther and farther away from the outlined course in his subject until he was completely away from it."

In answer to questions, Col. Strong said boys following the prescribed course in drafting for Grade 7 would normally complete 10 to 12 drawings, ranging from very simple to more difficult scale drawings.

In a school year,

"At the end of the year they would have a good knowledge of drawing, and be able to print letters and numerals to explain them. This they gain only by drawing."

"Capt. D'Arcy's boys don't draw. He spends the bulk of his time teaching and giving the boys notes."

Referring to a report he had made on a visit to Capt. D'Arcy's class at Lanedowne Junior High School in May, 1956, Col. Strong noted that some boys had completed only one simple project in 22-hour classes. The norm, he said, would be four to six.

The inspector said he noted there was too much emphasis on theory and not enough on practical work.

Slower Boys Confused

Of a visit to Capt. D'Arcy's class at Colquitz in January, 1960, Col. Strong noted in a report sent to Capt. D'Arcy that it was plain he was not following the curriculum; that the number of notes taken appeared excessive; that some of the slower boys appeared confused.

He advised them more practice in the use of instruments.

"In March of this year, after many talks with Capt. D'Arcy," said Col. Strong, "I said I hoped he would change his methods to follow the curriculum. He said he had no intention of changing."

The inspector said he was unhappy about the notebooks kept by boys in Capt. D'Arcy's classes as they indicated lack of understanding of the terms used.

"In my opinion," the inspector told the hearing, "Capt. D'Arcy was not teaching. He was talking hour after hour on subjects which he considered important but which were not in the curriculum."

To compare with notebooks from Colquitz students, Col. Strong introduced a file of drawings by pupils in the same grade at Oak Bay Junior High School.

"This," he said, "is what should be done in these classes. I'm not tussy about notebooks at all, and I found nothing like this at Colquitz."

"It is true," Mr. Haldane asked, "that sequential teaching is desired so that there will be no difficulty if a student changes to another school?"

"Yes."

Qualified to Carry On

"From your observation of methods of education, but whether Capt. D'Arcy did within the directives given him, do what he was employed to do."

Second witness called was John Henry Dalgleish, supervisor of technical and adult education for School District 61.

Mr. Dalgleish said he had asked Capt. D'Arcy many times to return to the prescribed spurs of studies. He hadn't.

He wrote to Capt. D'Arcy March asking him to agree to return to the prescribed course for the final quarter of the year, he testified.

After some dispute between Mr. Haldane and Mr. Baker over the wording of the question, Mr. Tupper repeated the query as it was written in Mr. Dalgleish's letter, and asked:

"Did you get a simple 'yes' or 'no'?"

"I did not."

The hearing adjourned until 10 a.m. today.

Expert Opinion

Good Museum Depends On a Big Garbage Can

COURTENAY—A good museum depends on a big garbage can, spectators at the opening of the new Comex district museum were started to hear an authority declare.

Edward S. Meade, Campbell River's curator, told the crowd a museum shouldn't turn down any offers at apparent junk because it might contain a highly valuable item. After the offering, his garbage can was much used, he said.

Meade, who has built himself into an amateur authority on curating as a hobby, said all museums are plagued by lack of space and lack of money.

He predicted a period of rapid growth for the museum here if the society is practical about money matters.

He said collection plate methods used at Campbell River produced an average of 25 cents for each of the 1,500 visitors signing the register in July. In contrast, 15,000 people who attended the Port Langley display last year contributed a total of only $88, he said.

Items in the Courtenay display would prove priceless in years to come, Meade said. An Indian mask on the wall that went for $250 on the collectors' market 10 years ago now was worth $500, as original, unpainted totem worth $1,000, he said.

Mayer W. C. Moore turned the key of the door to the museum, built as a wing of the tourist bureau, and declared it officially open.

Ben Hughes, museum committee chairman, thanked industry and business for donating $2,500 to meet construction costs. He congratulated acting curators Mrs. Rene Harding and Miss Laura Bateman for setting up and cataloguing the exhibits.

Hughes said when he became the first president of the historical society eight years ago they little realized collections would grow to the extent of needing a special building. The new building already is becoming crowded.

COURTENAY—School board chairman James Simon angrily denied a report published Wednesday in a Nanaimo paper that trustees were considering building underground schools.

The board has been unhappy with new designs that produce too much heat and glare from glass wall construction but he described as "senseless" the idea they would go underground to solve the problem.

"The whole story was a complete fabrication and you can quote me," Simon said.

CHERRY POINT—More than $300 damage was the result of an early morning car accident on Cherry Point Road south of Duncan yesterday.

R. W. Stewart, Campbell Street, Duncan, apparently drove his car off the road and went into the ditch. The car toppled on its roof but Stewart managed to extricate himself without injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Saunders came to Canada in 1908, and after making their home in various centres across the country, came to Alberni in 1938, where Mr. Saunders went into the shoe repair business.

Wall Collapses, No One Hurt

BOBOYK (ICF) — Variety store employees Diane Kell and Mary Ecker narrowly escaped injury Wednesday when a basement wall of the store collapsed during a torrential downpour. The collapsing wall knocked out the stairs, trapping the girls. They were rescued minutes later when a ladder was lowered to them.

School board chairman Mrs. Marion Ricker said the machines are installed on a trial basis only and will be assessed in December.

Mr. Thomson said that he feared if the experiment in the high school was a success then machines would be put into other schools as well and possibly the owners of the dispensers would want to add other types of machines for other products.

To Study at UBC

Talented Girl Wins $500 Alberni Prize

ALBERNI — A girl with many talents is this year's winner of the $500 bursary given annually by Local 145 L.W.A.

Bonny M. McCarthy, 18, can claim a talent for hard work as not the least of the assets she will take to UBC where she hopes to study economics and political science.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. McCarthy, Cowley Road, Cherry Creek, she is an accomplished rider and a member of Alberni Valley Riders' Club. She helps with the hay on the family farm, plays the piano, is a member of the

A.D.H.S. Chemistry Club. She is substitute organist for St. Andrew's United Church and plays for services at Alberni Indian Residential School. She has passed her Grade IX Toronto Conservatory piano exams with honors.

Her interest in people and in affairs of the world has inspired her ambition to study sociology, anthropology and psychology with a view to obtaining a Ph.D. She hopes, eventually, to work with the UNO.

The McCarthy family came here four years ago from Arizona. She was born in Boise, Idaho.

Cowichan Group Notes Inquest Jury Verdict

DUNCAN—Note was taken by the chamber of commerce council this week of a recent inquest jury verdict and the rider brought in by foreman Bert Gray.

A verdict of accidental death was recorded in the case of a child killed on the Cowichan lake road between Duncan and Lake Cowichan.

For several years, efforts to obtain government action in reconstructing the first few miles of road in order to project, widening and remove the numerous dangerous bends have failed.

The chamber council heard from Barney Cocks that 190 "chipper trucks" pass a given point each day and decided to write to senior traffic engineer T. H. Harding of the highways department to obtain more traffic statistics. When these are forthcoming Mr. Gray will be approached to head a committee to approach the department on this necessary project.

Comox Plans Sewer Vote In September

COMOX—A plebiscite on a $361,000 sanitary sewer system probably will be held in September, council chairman Ron Ellis said yesterday.

He said a public meeting at Comox Wednesday by 150 ratepayers left the impression council should make another attempt at a sewer bylaw following its first defeat in 1958.

Some opinions expressed opposed sewers but applause from a majority of the audience in support of other speakers indicated many people wanted a sewer system.

Douglas Whalen, consulting engineer and one of a panel of experts who presented a factual case for sewers, said the capital cost, allowing for contingencies and bond discounts, would total $361,000. Debt retirement of $33,000 annually over 20 years would mean maximum charges of $2.75 a month for homes and 20 cents a foot frontage tax yearly.

Chairman Ellis said a $25,000 grant from the nuns operating St. Joseph's Hospital, plus federal assistance and winter works allowances, might bring monthly charges down to $2.10.

Total annual cost to the average household would be $20.20, he said.

Dr. M. Waldichuk, federal marine biologist, and C. J. Keenan from the department of health in Victoria, agreed there would be no problems from putting the outfall of the system 3,000 feet off shore in Georgian Strait.

SEPTIC KEEPAGE
Fish and oyster beds would suffer less than they do now from septic tank seepage and the bacteria count in Comox harbor would lower, they said.

Dr. G. A. Gibson, Upper Level health unit director, and Hugh Hart, provincial sanitation inspector, said a health problem of considerable magnitude existed from septic tanks.

Hart said a layer of hard pan under Comox meant 80 per cent of the septic tanks were weeping on other people's property. For this reason, further national housing loans had been cancelled until proper sewage disposal is installed, he said.

YOUTHS CALLED UP BY REDS AS BERLIN TENSION GROWS

TCA Flies Despite Walkout

MONTREAL (CP)—An emergency meeting of union and company negotiators is to be held early today to try to end a walkout of more than 1,300 TCA employees who walked off their jobs Thursday night.

The employees, members of the International Association of Machinists CLC staged what the company branded "a wildcat action" to attend a union meeting in suburban Westmount.

MASS MEETING

The employees meeting broke up after midnight when unanimous approval was given for a "24-hour mass meeting" to be continued at 8 a.m. today.

"Cause of the walkout appeared to be a change in work shifts TCA effected at its plant 1,700-employee engineering and maintenance base at Montreal International Airport."

The shift change, a TCA spokesman said, "is all part of a belt-tightening policy by TCA."

Remaining flights Thursday night were handled by supervisory personnel and a private company hired by TCA to handle baggage.

Flights on the company spokesman said the airline will try to maintain normal flights today although the company could only use aircraft which were "serviceable and flying at the moment."

Victor Rygas, a union executive, told the employees' mass meeting the Canadian Air Line Pilots' Association had refused to fly TCA planes not serviced by union members.

TCA appeared to be abiding by this apparent ruling by the CALPA, none of whose executives could be reached immediately.

Saanich House Gutted

A fierce fire swept through an old four-room house of 4225 Wilkinson Road late last night completely gutting the structure.

House is owned by Mrs. Mary Gillman, 1855 Danford Road. How the fire started was not known early this morning.

No Revolt Likely In East Berlin

By JANE ARMSTRONG

BERLIN (TNS)—East Berlin is a dead city, but there is no immediate sign of revolt.

I walked freely through streets that were almost deserted, looked in the meagre shops and talked to the green-uniformed members of the People's Police, the People's Army and the factory militia. Civilian East Berliners hustled by me clutching briefcases or shopping bags. No civilian wanted to be seen or overheard talking to a foreigner.

WENT ON FOOT I had to go on foot because of the ban on car travel from West Berlin.

After a searching look around the city I predict that despite the depressing evidence of Communism's failure, there will be no East Berlin revolt. Behind me, I left a West Berlin bustling with normal city life, its sleek boulevards glistening in summer rain. Shops were open and busy, the cafes full. Not one armed soldier was to be seen.

SINISTER BARBED WIRE Wherever I went moving from West toward the East I came up against the sinister coil of barbed wire that snakes along the boundary and seals the 50 points where BERLIN (UPI)—Communist East Germany announced yesterday the "voluntary" mobilization of its 2,000,000-member youth movement to fight if necessary over Berlin. At the same time France and Britain joined the United States in bolstering their armed forces in Germany.

The toughening attitude on both sides of the closed Berlin border was reflected in strongly worded notes the Western Big Three gave Russia yesterday protesting recent Communist measures in Berlin and warning the Soviets of the grave danger they posed.

NEW ATTACKS MADE

Communist propaganda machines unleashed new attacks on Western "warmongering" but nine members of the Communist Peoples Police fled across the border with their weapons in an indication of growing fears in East Germany. Eight doctors fled, making even more critical the medical shortage in the Soviet zone.

POLICE ARRESTED

A series of border incidents yesterday heightened the tension. In one incident armed German police arrested a British military police patrol and detained the men three hours. Other border guards turned back Bishop Otto Dibelius, Evangelical bishop of all Berlin, as he tried to enter East Berlin.

The U.S. army, navy and air force already had announced major moves to call up reserves and increased the draft to bolster armed strength in face of the growing Berlin crisis.

President de Gaulle of France cut short his vacation and sped to Paris for a meeting with the National Defense Committee. Shortly afterwards the government announced France is increasing its military and air force strength both in West Germany and in France itself.

The British air ministry announced it would send a "limited reinforcement" of Royal Air Force jets to West Germany.

jet fighters to Germany. Other British sources said Britain would bring the British army of the Rhine to its full strength of 35,000 men.

"ARMY" SUPPLEMENTED

Conscription of the Communist youths, members of the "Free German Youth" (FDJ) would supplement the 110,000-man "Peoples Army" the West contends the Reds have moved into East Berlin illegally, the 78,000 "Peoples Police" and the 300,000-man workers militia.

This "army" is backed up by a Soviet force of 22 divisions, about 400,000 men.

"DEFEND REPUBLIC"

The "voluntary" mobilization was announced in the organization's newspaper Young World.

"The fatherland is calling!" its headlines read. "Defend the socialist republic!"

BORDER TOURED

Despite the Communists' denunciation of the British patrol yesterday, they made no effort to halt British Ambassador Sir Christopher Steel when he drove across the border with the Union Jack flying from his car. He toured the border for 25 minutes.

Steel said he had been impressed with the "extraordinary calm and fortitude" which West Berliners were facing the present crisis.

In contrast, the East Berlin press carried inflammatory articles aimed at whipping up fear and hatred of the West.

FLIGHT GOES ON

The East German Democratic League of Women issued a statement accusing the West of stoking up the cold war to make it a hot war. The women accused Western agents of "kidnapping children, tearing families apart and trying to destroy our happiness."

Despite such propaganda and the presence of guards at the crossing, some refugees managed to get across the border during the night and day.

BERLINERS HEARTENED

Unhappy West Berliners, who have criticized the West for failing to take strong enough measures against the Communists, took heart as the allies delivered their notes to the Kremlin and announced their military build-up plans.

Saanich Hopes High Despite Unpaid Bill

Deadline for the payment of Saanich taxes passed at 5 p.m. yesterday and no cheque was received from the newly-"nationalized" B.C. Electric.

But Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of the board of directors of the Crown corporation, told the Colonist last night a meeting of the board will be held soon to consider the payment of taxes to municipalities which include B.C. Electric property.

And Saanich comptroller treasurer John Tribe said he is confident the $80,000 tax bill will be paid.

ON ITS MERITS

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, a senior member of the provincial cabinet, commented that the matter will have to be considered on its merits.

Dr. Shrum said a meeting of the board will be held "after Labor Day," when former Lieutenant-Governor Frank

Ross, a member of the board, will return from vacation.

"We haven't decided on the payment of taxes to municipalities yet. This matter will be discussed at the next meeting."

A legal authority said yesterday it is not likely that the Crown corporation will be liable to pay penalty taxes for late payments. If the board does agree to pay the taxes.

OWNER LIABLE

Mr. Tribe based his belief that the taxes will be paid on a section of the provincial Municipal Act which states the owner of a property at the time the assessment roll is prepared in November is liable to pay taxes on the property when they fall due the following year.

Tunisia Turns Down French Talks Offer

PARIS (UPI)—France said yesterday it had asked Tunisia to open direct negotiations on the Bizerte crisis but Tunisia has refused.

The foreign ministry said the call for talks was sent to the Tunisians Friday.

"The Tunisian government has declined our offers," it added. "It has let it be known in Paris . . . that it did not esteem it advantageous to start negotiations merely to normalize the situation in Bizerte."

France said its withdrawal of one paratroop regiment from Bizerte is evidence of its desire to bring the situation back to normal.

But it warned that Tunisian demonstrations planned in the area today might lead to incidents that could renew the fighting.

Tunisia is believed unwilling to hold talks on the dispute now because the United Nations will take it up next week in a special session.

City Hall Miniature United Nations

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Applicants for city hall jobs are asked for their nationality and religion but the answers play no part in making employment decisions, city manager C. C. Wyatt said bluntly yesterday.

And, he added, they are not compelled to answer those questions.

Mr. Wyatt made the comment when a Colonist reporter obtained copies of three standard job application forms at the city hall personnel office. The applications—for inside workers, outside workers and firemen—all include the two questions.

"In recent years the city has employed persons with 28 different nationalities, including Canadian," he said. "And our employees have belonged to 19 different religious bodies."

"Those forms have been in use for several decades with few changes, long before the provincial Fair Employment Practices Act was passed in 1956."

Nationalities found in city hall files yesterday were:

Australian, Austrian, Chinese, Cuban, Danish, Dutch, East Indian, English, Finnish, French, German, Hungarian, Indian, Irish, Italian, Malayan, Mexican, Negro, Norwegian, Polish, Portuguese, Russian, Scotch, Swedish, Ukrainian, American, Welsh and Yugoslavian.

The 19 different religions found in personnel files were: Church of England, Baptist, Christian Brothers, Christian Reform, Christian Science, Jehovah Witness, Church of the Latter Day Saints, Lutheran, Methodist, Greek Orthodox, Plymouth Brethren, Presbyterian, Protestant, Roman Catholic, Salvation Army, Serbian Orthodox, Seventh Day Adventist, Sikh and United Church.

"Quite frequently, because we have such a cosmopolitan group, we use members of our staff for translators," Mr. Wyatt said.

"The only purpose it might serve for us to have a record of an employee's religion is in the event of somebody being fatally stricken or injured during work. In that case we could find a minister or priest of the employer's religion."

The check of employee application forms was made after seven pointed questions about the matter at Wednesday's council meeting.

Ald. Griffin wanted to know why applicants are asked nationality and religion and what bearing the answers have on the appointment of new employees.

He told the council the two questions appeared to contravene the Fair Employment Practices Act. The list of questions was referred to Mr. Wyatt for answer.

Flood Fund Closed By Mayor

Mayor Percy Scowell has decided to close off the New Brunswick Flood Relief Fund because it is not being supported.

The fund was opened by city council July 12 with a $100 donation. Since then public donations in the appeal have amounted to only $45.
